Civic Committee To Discuss Plan Wednesday

Salem Area Development Council Is Proposed Here

Initial steps to form a Salem Area Development Council are expected to be taken at a meeting of the Civic Committee Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Public Library assembly room.

The development Council, proponents point out, would encompass the five townships which actually make up the greater Salem area—Perry, Goshen, Green, Salem and Butler.

The area covers 144 square miles, with the City of Salem at the center and with all townships being mutually dependent upon each other.

Attorney Walter J. Hunston, president of the Civic Committee, announced that Russell (Denny) Schill, executive secretary of the Ellwood City, Pa., Chamber of Commerce, will speak at the Wednesday night meeting. Mr. Schill has had wide experience in this field.

The trustees and clerks of all five townships have been invited to meet with Civic Committee members and other interested citizens of the five township area to discuss the proposal.

Because a good crowd is expected

ed the meeting has been scheduled for the Library assembly room.

In addition to Salem, other communities which could benefit from such an organization are those lying within the five-township district—Damascus, Washingtonville, Leetonia, Winona, Franklin Square, Garfield, New Albany and Greenford, in addition to farming areas of those townships, Atty. Hunston pointed out.

The Area Development Council would be patterned after similar councils which have been organized in a number of other cities and have produced tangible results for civic-minded people who are interested in the welfare of their communities and in future development and progress.

Explaining the plan farther, Atty. Hunston said "these councils are forums where all parties can sit down and study their problems and their relation to the larger task of area development. They consider problems of highway improvement, general planning, new industries and other items of importance."

"The city of Salem has solved or is in the process of solving sewage, water, planning and zoning, and arterial highways but the city cannot act intelligently as a unit unto itself. It is a part of a much larger whole such as township, county, state and nation and should plan accordingly.

"Most Area Councils are faced with the problem of obtaining one or more of the facilities which are already present in the Salem area. Water, sewage facilities, power, natural gas, highways, building sites for industry and residences, and skilled labor already are available here. A Council would immediately face the problem of where to go from this point.

"Salem is in the heart of the industrial area and quickly accessible to Youngstown, Akron, Canton, Pittsburgh and Cleveland. It should be especially attractive to the smaller industry which is so necessary to the larger industries.

"The hospitals, schools, recreation and retail trade facilities, coupled with the typical small city atmosphere, should make the local area not only attractive to those interested in location for smaller industry but also to those interested in an ideal place to live.

"A Development Council can mean much to the five townships' future progress."

U.S. Ends Effort To Get Israel To Leave Egypt

Ike Tells Israel It Has All Assurances That Will Be Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States virtually washed its hands today of efforts outside the United Nations to win Israeli withdrawal from disputed Middle East territories.

After an all-out weekend try which the White House said brought no agreement, President Eisenhower bluntly told Israel it now has "the maximum assurance that it can reasonably expect at this juncture, or that can be reconciled with fairness to others."

The "maximum assurance" passage was a reference to Eisenhower's outline, higher in the statement, of steps taken by the United Nations and those proposed by the United States, to protect Israeli interests in the now-occupied Gaza Strip and Aqaba Gulf areas. Israel itself has demanded actual guarantees before it pulls out.

AT LEAST 70 DIE IN OLD FOLKS HOME FIRE

Fire, Explosion Level Building In Few Minutes

155 Persons Were In Missouri Home When Blaze Started

WARRENTON, Mo. (AP)—Smoke and steam still rose today from the smoldering ruins of an old folks home which was turned into a funeral pyre in minutes for at least 70 persons by a racing fire Sunday.

Seventy of the 155 inmates, including 45 women, were reported missing.

The fire and an explosion took its toll in a matter of minutes. One eyewitness said it seemed the entire 2½ story brick building was aflame in three or four minutes. Another said it couldn't have been more than 15 minutes.

Searchers poured water on sections of the ruins today and then continued to probe through debris for bodies. They had recovered sixteen.

Survivors of the tragedy were given a breakfast of soft boiled eggs, oatmeal, bread and coffee or milk in their temporary quarters in the home's administration building. The food was cooked in the high school cafeteria, about two blocks away.

Two Visitors Reported Mrs. Bernice McDaniel, a nurse's aid who was on the second floor when the fire broke out, said she could recall only two Sunday visitors on her floor. She didn't know whether they escaped. Mrs. McDaniel, 42, said she and Mrs. Alta Floyd were on duty when her 10-year-old daughter called out "fire." All three escaped unhurt.

"We made our way down the stairs and out the crowded front door," she said. "We didn't have an opportunity to rescue any of the patients. They were all bed-ridden."

Mrs. McDaniel, resting at her Montgomery City, Mo., home where she was "terribly shaken up," said after reaching safety she "heard a terrific explosion."

She said there were seven nurse's aids, janitors and kitchen workers on duty at the time of the tragedy, which was all over in minutes.

Bodies could be seen in the rubble. They were so badly burned that plastic bags and cardboard cartons were used to gather them up. Most of the bodies appeared to be in the basement.

County Coroner F. H. Knigge estimated the death toll "from 70 on up." The state highway patrol, in reporting 70 inmates unaccounted for, did not include employees.

Firemen from 25 nearby communities, townspeople and attendants rushed into the burning building and helped bedridden inmates and the injured out before flames thwarted further rescue attempts.

Shortly after the fire's start, a muffled explosion shot flames and smoke billowing into the air, visible more than 30 miles away.

It started off as a pleasant Sunday.

Heart Fund Canvass Collects $725.12

A door-to-door canvass by Salem Girl Scouts Sunday added $725.12 to the Heart Fund, Russ Wagner, campaign chairman, announced today.

The Salem Heart Fund drive now has collected about $1,200, Wagner reports, with about 11 days left in the campaign.

One hundred and thirteen Girl Scouts took part in the canvass. Sixteen troops were represented, Wagner says, with Mrs. James Minamyer, service chairman, in charge. Fourteen other women assisted in the canvass. John Herman Jr., of the American Legion, helped conduct the canvass.

Tag days will be conducted Friday and Saturday for the Heart Fund, with Ross Joseph in charge. The drive is being sponsored by the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Ike Keeps Close Eye On Mideast

Set To End Vacation If Crisis Continues

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower continued a close watch on the Middle East crisis today and was reported ready to return to Washington "at any time if he should decide it necessary."

The likelihood was the President would put in a telephone call to Secretary of State Dulles in the capital during the day to confer regarding next steps in the Mideast situation.

Asked about a published report that Eisenhower already has decided to fly back to Washington Tuesday morning, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly, said:

"I can only say no decision has been made yet as to when the President will return. If it should turn out he goes back tomorrow, it will be a decision that has not been made at this time."

Aides said Eisenhower did decide it Sunday was not necessary to return immediately after getting word from Washington that Israel had again rejected an American plan for withdrawal of Israeli troops from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area.

On receipt of that word the President sounded a new plea for withdrawal and told Israel it already has received "the maximum assurance it can reasonably expect at this juncture" regarding safeguards against Israel.

Eisenhower came to Thomasville Feb. 8 as the guest of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. At that time indications were he would stay a week or 10 days.

Later reports were he was enjoying the quail shooting and golf so much he might stay on until this weekend, which would make for a stay of about 2½ weeks.

Patrol Barracks Work Is Behind Schedule

The State Highway Patrol's new Columbiana County barracks under construction on Rt. 30, one-half mile south of Lisbon, will not be completed March 1 as originally expected, Cpl. John Miller of the Salem post, reported today.

Cpl. Miller said considerable interior work, plumbing, painting, and electrical wiring, is still uncompleted. He also stated that final grading of the grounds and cementing of the driveway depends upon more favorable weather.

The new barracks is being built by Bricker and Bricker of Salem at a construction cost of between $50,000 and $65,000.

Hundreds Of Clothing Items Collected Here

Hundreds of articles of clothing and other necessities were contributed by Salem residents Saturday in the first annual clothing drive for overseas relief.

Persons who still have donations may bring them to the Masonic Temple tonight before 6.

Trucks will be in the city this afternoon to pick up the clothing, but they will not leave until the headquarters at the temple closes at 6. Entrance to the headquarters is through the temple's west basement door.

Any prospective donors who miss today's pickup, may bring their clothing and other articles to any church or to the central depository for the area at Westminster House of the Presbyterian Church.

Contributions of money may be addressed to Church World Service and sent to Postoffice Box 312, Salem.

Boy Scouts were active in the drive sponsored by the Salem Ministerial Association in conjunction with Church World Service. The scouts distributed 3,000 collection bags Saturday, Feb. 9, and collected the bags and other boxes and containers all day Saturday.

Articles donated were sorted and packed by the Y-Teens of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Council of Churchwomen members Saturday supervised disposal of incoming donations at the temple.

Greatest in demand are woolen clothing, good men's and women's shoes, infants wear, and blankets.

OSU Alumni Chapter To Be Formed Here

A Salem chapter of the Ohio State University Alumni Association will be organized at a dinner meeting of local alumni Tuesday, March 5, at the Salem Golf Club.

Jack Fullen of Columbus, OSU alumni secretary, will speak. Ohio State alumni living in Salem, Leetonia, Columbiana, Lisbon and adjacent areas are urged to attend. At least 110 known OSU graduates reside in Salem and an estimated 75 others are believed living in nearby communities.

The dinner meeting will be at 6:30 March 5. Reservations should be made with members of the steering committee which includes Dr. George F. Jones, Atty. Bryce Kendall, Charles Merrill, Dr. Joseph Schmid and Jack Rance.

Employers, ILA Agree On Pact

Dockworkers To Vote On 3-Year Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—New York waterfront employers and the striking International Longshoremen's Assn. reached agreement Sunday night on a pact to end the five-day East Coast dock tieup.

"This contract ensures waterfront peace along the entire Eastern Coast from Hampton Roads, Va., to Portland, Maine," said ILA counsel Louis Waldman.

The actual back-to-work movement of 45,000 dockworkers, however, is conditional on membership ratification of the proposed three-year contract and settlement of thorny local issues in several ports.

Hassles over local port conditions in Boston, Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., kept local union officials and employer groups in various stages of negotiations. At Philadelphia, both sides were reported stalemated and "still very far apart."

They, nonetheless, were expected to fall in line quickly once the 25,000 longshoremen in the Port of New York accept the new contract. As in past waterfront strikes, the "pilot" pacts negotiated in New York have set the pattern.

Four Persons Fined, Forfeit Bonds Here

Four persons were fined or forfeited bonds totaling $65 for traffic violations over the weekend and today, Mayor Dean B. Cranmer reported.

Forfeiting bonds were: Robert Hill, 19, of 409 W. Pershing St., $15, speeding; Thomas R. Shaulis, 23, of Newton Falls, $20, crossing the yellow line; and Myron P. Miklas, 22, of McDonald, $15, reckless operation.

Fined was Donald L. Sheely, 32, of Canfield, $15, speeding.

'Captain Of the Queens' To Tell of Life at Sea

Local residents interested in stories of the high seas will have an opportunity to hear the saga of a 50-year career on the ocean when Captain Harry Grattidge, former commodore of the Cunard Line, gives a talk Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the High School.

The program will be the fifth in the current Town Hall Series. Captain Grattidge of Stratford, England, began his career as a boy of 15 in 1906. He spent the next four years traveling around the world and culminated his half-century-long career as captain of the British Empire's Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth.

During World War II, he was aboard the ship Lancastria when it was bombed by German planes off the coast of France, and he was captain of Winston Churchill's headquarters ship on its way to the Yalta conference.

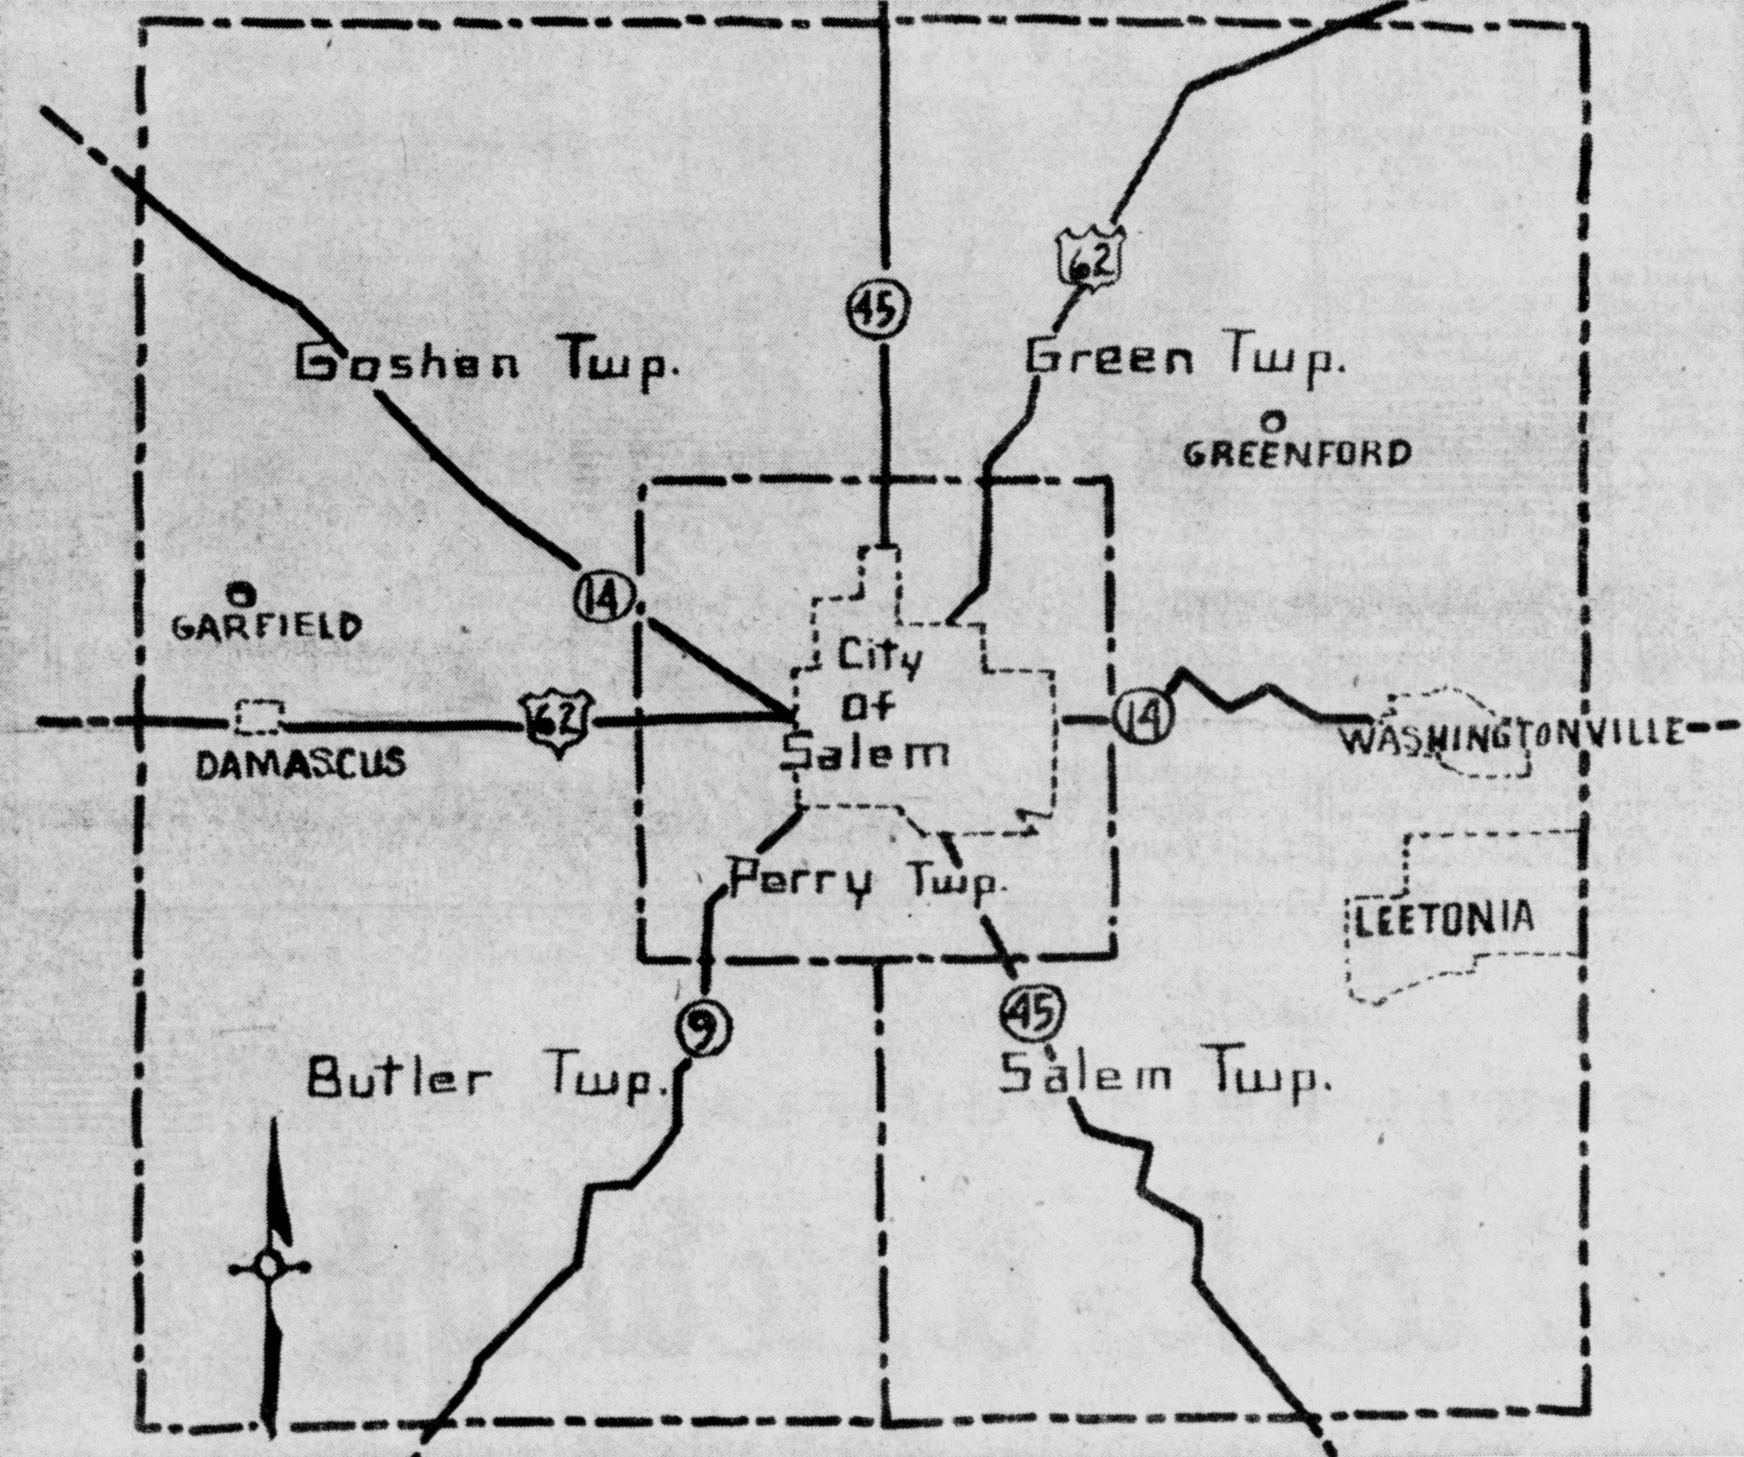

In World War I, Captain Grattidge was a lieutenant on a ship in the Dardanelles, located in northwest Turkey.

Polio Fund Drive Total Is $4,734.20

The city's March of Dimes drive conducted throughout January netted a total of $4,734.20, officials reported today.

Included in the grand total was a donation of $50 given by a Salem family which was stricken by polio.

A breakdown of the money garnered includes: Business firms, $982; individuals, $1,103.12; granges, $14.10 with returns incomplete; coin boxes, $137.89; special events, $2,432.27; and miscellaneous, $14.82.

Money from special events included: girl scout collections, $800.73; street collections, $576.42; Cassidy show, $402.78; and theater collections, $141.81.

No goal had been set by the officials. Archie Bricker was in charge of the drive.

Bloodmobile Visit Set Here March 5

The Red Cross regional bloodmobile will make its next appearance in Salem March 5 from 1 to 7 p.m. at the American Legion Home.

The new time schedule will enable those working during the day to make appointments through the supper hours.

Many new donors are expected because of the time change. All donors at the last visit of the bloodmobile will be eligible to register for this visit also. It is hoped that the goal of 125 pints will be surpassed.

The need is still urgent and Salem has surpassed its goal only twice, in November and June of last year. The quota was short by five pints at the December collection.

Ohioan Faces Slaying Charges

McCoy Confesses Killing Two Relatives

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Russell Thomas McCoy, 22-year-old admitted killer, faces a first degree murder charge in Municipal Court here today for the fatal shooting Feb. 9 of his half-sister and brother-in-law.

McCoy admitted Sunday he shot to death Louise See, 46, and her husband, Lloyd, 39, when they objected to his drinking. He said he then burned down the See's cabin home about 10 miles east of here and fled to Columbus in See's auto. Both bodies were burned beyond recognition.

McCoy, object of a nation-wide manhunt, surrendered to Muskingum County Deputy Sheriff Fred Uffner at the county jail here early Sunday.

"I want to give myself up," he told Uffner, "I can't live with it." McCoy unfolded his account of the slayings and of his subsequent flight in two and a half hours of questioning by Prosecutor Joseph McVerney, his assistant Richard Bridwell and Sheriff David Weisert.

McCoy told of the shootings, the fire and the drive to Columbus, and admitted robbing three establishments there of about $525.

He used the money, he said, to travel first to Chicago, then to Oklahoma City; El Paso, Texas; Juarez, Mexico; and finally, when his money began to give out, back to Zanesville.

What he did not spend on transportation, he said in a 54-page statement, he spent on drinking and on visiting night clubs in each city he went to.

In reply to a question by McVerney, McCoy said he returned here because "you can't run when you haven't got any money. You'll get caught sooner or later."

McCoy said he did not have a good time on his drinking spree. "You don't have a good time when somebody's after you. I was just running," he said.

McCoy took a bus from El Paso to Columbus, and then hitch-hiked a ride on a truck to Zanesville. His first stop was at the home of Dale Bundy, with whom McCoy worked in the Line Material Co. here.

Bundy was not home, but his wife, Eloise, talked with McCoy through a window. She refused to admit him to the house.

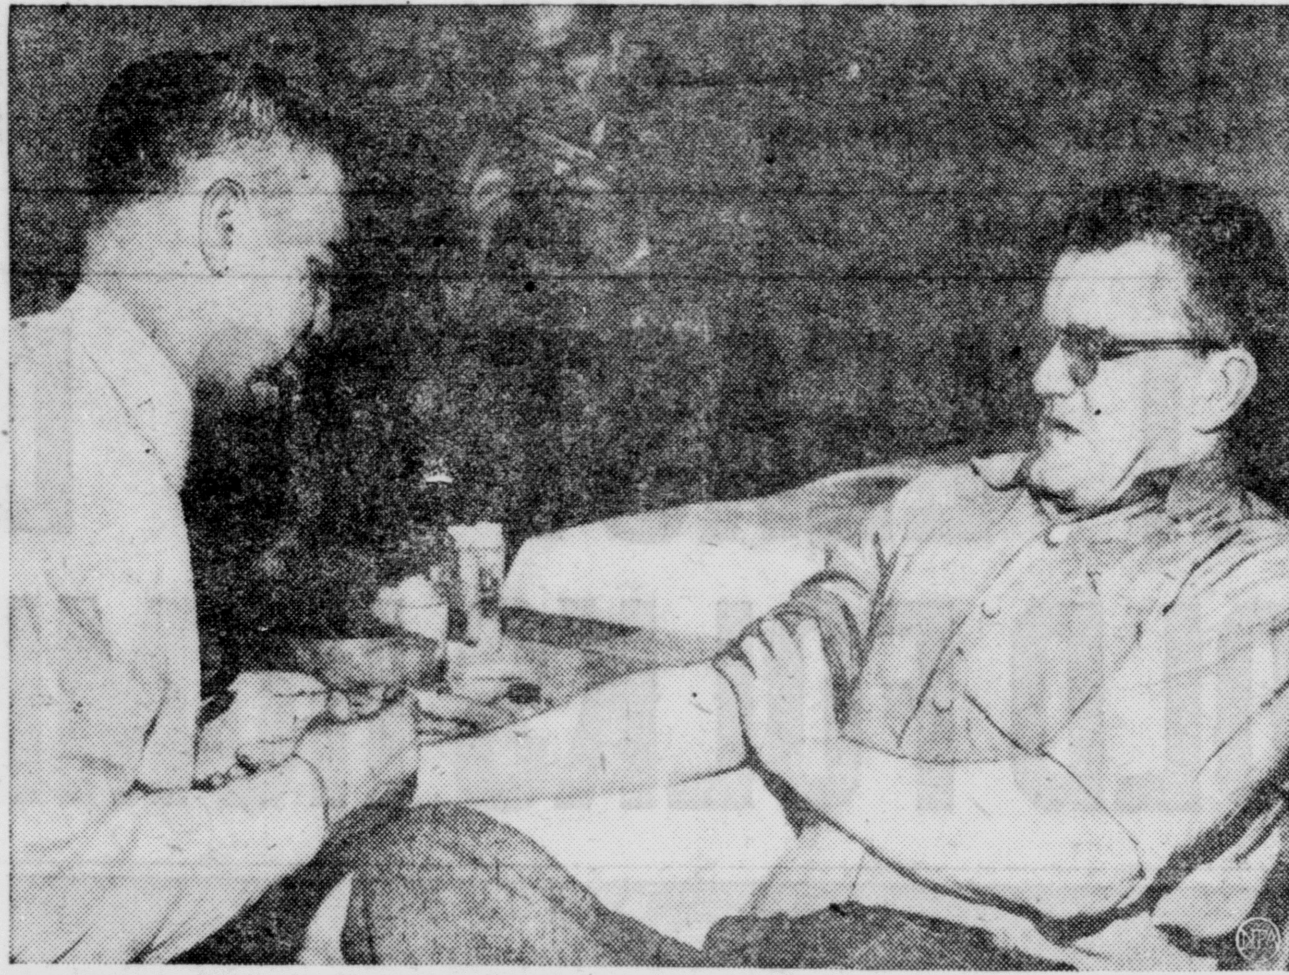

Mrs. Bundy quoted McCoy as telling her:

"I know I have done an awful thing. I'm sorry because I loved them both."

Mrs. Bundy also told authorities McCoy said he felt "like jumping in the river."

When McCoy left, Mrs. Bundy said, she went to a neighbor's house to telephone the police.

Ten minutes later, however, McCoy, unarmed and down to a little more than $4, walked into the county jail.

Dr. Southam does all of the implantations in the subjects, while his colleague's chief duty is the growing and preparing of the cancer cells in tissue for implantation.

Only Six Killed In Ohio Traffic

9-Year-Old Boy Drowns In Lagoon

By The Associated Press

Only six persons died in traffic accidents in Ohio during the week-end.

The survey, which began Friday at 6 p.m. and ended Sunday at midnight, showed that a seventh fatality during the weekend was a nine-year-old boy who drowned when he fell through ice in a lagoon near Port Clinton.

Saturday: Richard Rubeck, 9, Eagles Beach, drowned when he fell through the ice on a lagoon two miles east of Port Clinton.

Anthony Edwards, 68, Cleveland, of injuries suffered when hit by an auto at a Cleveland intersection.

Sunday: Lloyd Koch, 46, Middletown, and his son, Floyd Gerald Koch, 14, when their auto collided with a Baltimore & Ohio train at a railroad crossing in Middletown.

Warren L. Brown, 34, Rt. 2, Vermilion, in a two-car collision at the intersection of U.S. 60 and Ohio 199 13 miles north of Fostoria.

Mary Jean Mallone, 13, Barberton, in an auto accident one mile north of New Matamoras on Ohio 7.

Urges Reversal Of Trend To Softer Educational Process

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—T. Keith Glennan, president of Teachers and school administrators must take the lead in reversing the trend toward a softening of the educational process, Dr.

"You will have in your hands in the years ahead a new and important weapon for use in this battle," the Cleveland educator said in an address prepared for delivery at the third general session of the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators. "The entrance requirements for colleges are not going to be reduced as the number of applicants increases."

Glennan declared that fewer high schools now are offering courses in physics, chemistry and geometry and said this trend has resulted in a "situation where only about 55 per cent of high school students are taking mathematics or science, as compared to about 85 per cent who studied these subjects 50 years ago."

He told the administrators this trend has come about as secondary schools have attempted to meet their responsibilities toward the terminal student, since today it is no longer the case that the great majority of high school students will go on for a college degree.

PAPER STRIKE TO END
CINCINNATI (AP)—Production was scheduled to resume today at the U.S. Printing & Lithograph Co. in nearby Norwood after striking United Paper Workers' approved a proposed new contract.

Union officials said the new agreement, ratified Sunday provides an eight cent hourly wage increase and improves fringe benefits. About 400 workers left their jobs last Feb. 8.

Youngstown Man Slain; Transient Held
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Police today questioned a 39-year-old transient in the slaying of Julius Cercone, 43, owner of the McAllister farm market.

Cercone was stabbed seven times early Sunday, apparently in a holdup attempt, police said.

Police captured the 39-year-old transient while taking Cercone to the hospital. They said the man was apprehended in the act of knifing another man near the city incinerator.

Police Station's Phone Is Stolen

Cable Slashings Cut Portsmouth Service

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The vandals here are getting bolder. They're stealing phones from the police station.

In the latest wave of cable slashings, officers said, someone apparently sneaked into police headquarters, cut a pay telephone's wire and then stole the receiver.

The incident came in an outbreak of vandalism during the weekend in which 30 more cable slashings were reported.

Only a handful of the 17,000 telephones in Portsmouth are now operating, police said. Cuttings over the weekend knocked out telephone service at Portsmouth's hospitals, and disrupted telephone and radio communications at the Scioto County sheriff's office and the State Highway Patrol post here, officers reported.

Regular and auxiliary policemen joined Red Cross workers in serving as messengers for emergency hospital cases.

The Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. also reported a number of cable slashings in the Harrison County area. A company spokesman said service was disrupted between Cadiz and Flushing and between Cadiz and New Athens.

More than 500 cable cutting incidents have now been reported since the Communications Workers of America (CWA) went on strike against Ohio Consolidated July 15. CWA officials have consistently denied responsibility for the vandalism.

Disputes over retention of a union shop clause and 15 other issues in a proposed new contract have blocked settlement of the strike. Negotiations resume tomorrow in Columbus.

Hollywood Seeks Dog With Kosher Appetite

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If you have a dog with a kosher appetite, there's a movie career waiting for him.

Director George Sidney says he needs a dog that will eat bagels, sour cream, lox and cheese blintzes.

"The dog, to co-star with Frank Sinatra, Kim Novak and Rita Hayworth in Columbia's 'Pal Joey' can be any breed or mixture thereof," Sidney said.

"The script calls for him to be Sinatra's pet—and eat the same kind of food—throughout the picture," he said.

Hollywood dogs so far have turned up their noses at the diet. "They want strictly horsemeat filets," Sidney bemoaned.

INCOME TAX PRIMER

Reporting Sale Of Properties

By RICHARD A. MULLEN
Written for NEA Service

The sale of property in 1956 can have important tax consequences which are explained in this article of the Primer.

If you had one or more of the following transactions in 1956, you will have to fill out what is called "Separate Schedule D" and file it along with Form 1040:

1. Sale of your home, car, household furnishings, jewelry, or other personal property for more than it cost you. If you sold any of these items for less than it cost, you cannot deduct the loss.
2. Sale of securities or real estate you bought for investment or speculation.
3. Securities or non-business loans which became worthless in 1956.

ALL OF THESE transactions would be reported as Capital Assets on Schedule D, under either "Short-Term Capital Gains and Losses" or "Long-Term," depending on this rule:

A non-business or personal loan which became worthless in 1956 is a short-term capital loss regardless of how long ago you made the loan. The rest of the transactions will be short-term if you held the property for six months or less and long-term if held for more than six months.

If you sold your residence in 1956, read over the special rules on page 12 of the official instructions. Note that under certain circumstances where the proceeds of the sale are used to buy another house, part or all the gain realized may not be taxed. Then check over the following additional information and tips:

The term "residence" includes a house, houseboat or house trailer. If you live in more than one place it must be your principal residence.

When part of your property is used as your principal residence, and part is used for business purposes or rented out, only the allocated gain on that part of the property used as the principal residence is not taxed. The gain on the business or rented part of the property must be reported.

FOR EXAMPLE, if a taxpayer renting one-third of his house sells it for $6,000 profit, he must report one-third of the gain, or $2,000, but need not report $4,000 of the profit if he otherwise complies with the special rules on sale of a residence.

In determining how much you have to put into a new house in order to postpone the tax on a profit you made during 1956 in selling your old house, you start with the selling price of your old house and subtract selling commissions. In addition, you can subtract expenses for redecorating done to assist the sale and performed within a 90-day period ending on the day you sign a contract to sell the old house, provided you pay for the redecorating within 30 days after the date of sale.

For example, if you sold your house for $15,000, paid a $1,000 commission and a $1,000 redecorating bill just after you sold, you will not be taxed on any profit if within the proper period you buy or construct another home costing $13,000 or more.

This is true even though you may have only paid $10,000 for your old home and hence have a gain of $3,000.

If you claim the benefit of special rules on the sale of your residence, be sure to attach Schedule D the information asked for in the official instructions.

EVEN THOUGH you did not purchase a new home by Dec. 31, 1956, if you think you may either buy or build within the required period you need not report a tax on the profit from the sale of your old residence on your 1956 return, but should enter "none" in column (h), headed "gain or loss," of Schedule D.

If it develops that you don't buy or build and occupy a new residence within the specified time, then you must file an amended 1956 tax return and pay a tax on the profit.

Here are some tips to help you fill out Schedule D:

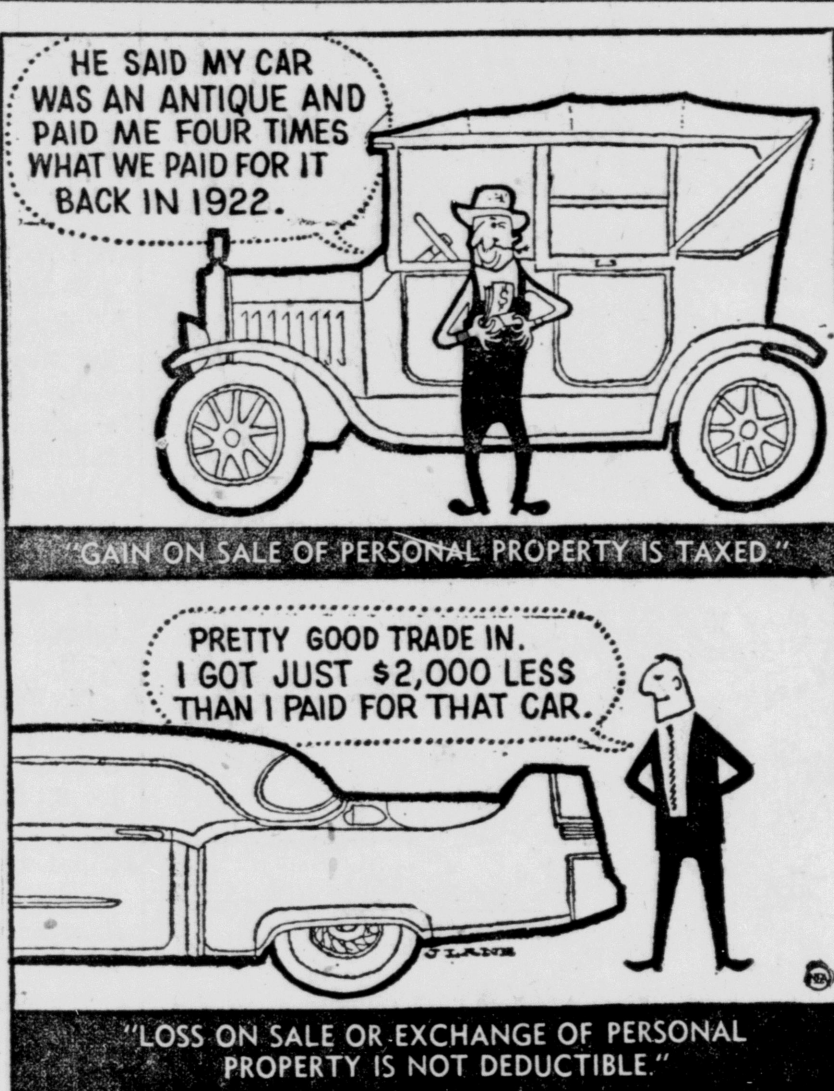

1. After filling in columns (b) and (c), the date acquired and the date sold, check to make sure all property listed under long-term capital gains and losses was held for more than six months.
2. Put "0" in column (e) (depreciation) unless at some time you rented out the property or used it in a business. You must show depreciation for any period during which the property was so used or rented. Watch for Article 8 for instructions on how to compute depreciation.

3. Remember to include in column (f) the cost of any improvements, such as an additional room, front porch or the like. Do not include the cost of repairs and ordinary maintenance such as painting the house. Any cost you include here reduces your taxable gain.

YOUR COST OR other basis, which also goes in column (f) is what you paid for the property if you bought it. If it was inherited, it is the fair market value at the date of the decedent's death, or one year later at the election of the executor. If it was a gift received since 1920, the basis is whatever it cost the last person who bought it. If received before 1921, the basis is its fair market value at the time of the gift.

The schedule automatically includes only half of any long-term capital gains in taxable income. This half becomes part of your income, taxed at the same rate as your other income until you pass the 50 per cent bracket. After the separate Schedule D is filled out, transfer either the gain or loss to the small Schedule D on page 3 of Form 1040.

Next: Pensions, rental, other income.

Students Threaten Strike For Principal

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—A sit down strike threatened today by students of Crestwood High School at Mantua has been headed off with the naming of George Converse as principal of the school—a new job there.

Converse, a member of the Portage County school system for 15 years, had been handling many of the duties of principal at the high school, but without the title or pay. He refused to report for his teaching duties Friday when his request that he be named principal, a position that has not previously existed at Crestwood, was turned down. Students rallied to his support and scheduled the strike.

A special meeting of the school board Sunday named Converse, 57, principal.

CONSTIPATED?

new laxative discovery
un-locks bowel blocks
without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H and stimulate it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

ONLY A BULK LAXATIVE can 1) re-moisten this dry, shrunken waste and 2) supply vital bulk to re-create a normal urge to purge. And, of all bulk laxatives, COLONOID, the

Mother, Son Held For 'Sardine Party' With 100 Youths

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A mother and her 19-year-old son who squeezed 100 teen-agers into their two-room apartment for a "sardine party" were held in $1,000 bail each for the grand jury.

Mrs. Emma Grant, 35, and her son, William, were charged with illegal liquor sales and disorderly conduct. She was charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Police said each guest was charged 35 cents for admission to William's birthday party—an all-you-can-eat-and-drink affair. Raiders who testified before magistrate Elias Myers said they seized whiskey, wine and beer as evidence.

Myers attacked "sardine parties" (where as many people as possible crowd into apartments) as "festering places for juvenile crime."

Kite Flyer Learns What Ben Franklin Felt

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Thirteen-year-old kite flyer Robert R. Malin Jr. has a pretty good idea what Ben Franklin felt 204 years ago.

Robert was flying his kite using a string containing metallic thread. The string touched a 7,200-volt power line and Robert was knocked to the ground.

He suffered a slight burn on his right hand — where the electricity entered — and a pin-size burn on the heel of his left foot — where it left, as the voltage grounded out.

UAW In Detroit Won't Move Dies Destined For Ohio Plant

DETROIT (AP)—Local 212 of the United Auto Workers said in a statement today that its members will refuse to move or ship any dies or fixtures from Chrysler's Detroit stamping division plants until an agreement is reached with the company on job transfer rights.

Pat Caruso, president of the local, said Chrysler Corp. "is removing dies piece-meal from the stamping division plants."

Caruso said the equipment was to be sent to a new Chrysler plant in Twinsburg, Ohio.

"The movement of these jobs," Caruso said, "decreases job opportunities for members of Local 212. Thousands of Chrysler workers have built their homes and based their futures in the Greater Detroit area, and all have ties in this community. These workers have a right to know what their economic status will be."

Caruso said the company has ignored the local's request for "information on jobs to be transferred to the Ohio plant." He added, "we are determined to protect the rights and equity of our membership."

A spokesman for Chrysler Corp. described Caruso's statement as "both premature and unjustified." He said Chrysler's central labor relations office is negotiating with the international UAW on the Twinsburg situation.

The Chrysler spokesman said, "The whole question of job and equipment transfers is being discussed by the company and the international union." He said there are at present no production workers at the Twinsburg plant.

There was no immediate comment from the International UAW.

Occasionally we talk to house-hunters who say they can see at least some small drawback to every house they look at, so they think maybe they will build a house for themselves.

That way, they say, they'll get exactly what they want. It sounds simple, doesn't it? And yet I'm willing to bet that it never works out that well once in a thousand times. People who build their own houses find almost invariably that there are some things they have overlooked, or didn't think of until it was too late.

When you shop around for a house that's already built, you stand a far better chance of finding a place that comes closest to being exactly what you want.

And then there's the problem of workmanship. Unless you have a far better than average knowledge of home-building, you never can tell whether your contractor might be cutting a few corners to increase his profit on your house. But if you buy a house that is already built, or buy a new one that is guaranteed to have the same workmanship as a "model" home built by the same contractor, you can see in advance exactly what you'll get for your money.

And most important of all, perhaps, is the question of cost. I wish I had a dollar for every privately built house that ever exceeded its original estimate by 25 percent or more. Give me that, and I'll pay you a thousand dollars for every one that didn't exceed its original estimate at all.

This business of building your own place may be all right for gamblers and millionaires, but it's a risky proposition for the rest of us lesser mortals!

Freedom From Hate

The inspired men who founded Brotherhood Week 30 years ago would be astonished by the progress men have made.

Yet, the inspired men who now are carrying on the movement are astonished only by the progress that has not been made.

They have seen so clearly what can happen when men win total freedom from hate that they cannot be satisfied with anything less.

They have learned through their own experience that many vexing problems disappear when hatred is banned; that many other problems can be solved with ease when brotherhood replaces prejudice.

It is a secret in good living that they want to share. They know it would have the same results for all their brothers that it has had for them.

A mind unfettered by hate has unlimited potentialities. A world unfettered by hate could be Utopia.

But how does a mind free itself from hate? It cannot be done by tricks or slogans. It is an inner, personal transformation — a release of something within man.

The transformation may begin with tolerance and forbearance, even with restraint. But it cannot end there.

Brotherhood is positive and outgoing. It is a manifestation of the love of all mankind, not merely a determination to get along with part of the human race.

This year as the National Conference of Christians and Jews again calls attention to Brotherhood Week, appraise your mind.

How are you getting along with your brothers who are your equals in the sight of God? Are you winning your personal freedom from hate? Or aren't you trying?

Age Discrimination

If the census experts are making a good guess, half the adult population of the United States will be over 45 years old by 1975 or soon afterward.

This is part of the background for a proposal in Congress — Senate Bill 1073 — to make it an unlawful employment practice to bar a job applicant because of age if the reasonable demands of the job do not require such a practice.

The same idea was incorporated in a House bill last year which would have barred age requirements as the sole reason for compulsory retirement in the competitive civil service.

While it can be pointed out that government, itself, has fostered the idea of compulsory retirement with age specifications in its own social security legislation, politicians now are becoming aware of popular resentment of retirement based on age.

They locked horns in the 1956 congressional session with a change in the retirement age for women — from 65 to 62. This was opposed by the Eisenhower administration on the grounds it would reduce job opportunities for older workers.

There was a party issue on this point. The Eisenhower administration also wanted to create a federal commission on problems of the aged and aging, and this idea was rejected. The four senators backing the proposal to make age discrimination an unfair employment practice are all Republicans. They realize that senior citizens will be heard from on future election days.

The administration view is that emphasis should be put on rehabilitation and re-employment of senior citizens, not on further legislation to bring about their retirement as producers and earners. The issue will develop in ratio to the increasing awareness of Americans that discrimination based on age can be just as cruel as discrimination based on color or religion.

Big Test

When events in the eastern Mediterranean have been unscrambled and put into order, the historic picture will not necessarily be the one that has become familiar during the Mideast "crisis" of the last few months.

Friction between the Arab world and Anglo-French interests will not be likely to loom as large in historic perspective as a detail scarcely noted by Americans in the closing weeks of 1956 and the first weeks of 1957.

This is the fact the Arab world's resentment of external influence is brought to a focus on the United States as the sponsor and financial backer of the republic of Israel, founded in 1948.

It is not the strong-arm policy of the British and French in the Suez crisis and the reaction of the United States that looms large in the Arab view so much as the fact Israel joined them in their military action against Suez and has not left Egyptian territory.

And growing out of that action is Arab interest in what the United States now will do to bring Israel into line with the United Nations policy of restoring the status quo before carrying out its promise to bring about a final settlement of Arabian-Israeli differences. Israel is the focal point of the trouble in the Mideast, a point largely overlooked.

Unintentional Error

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Senate Resolution Sounds Like Ultimatum

Maybe the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees pulled an unintentional boner. They wanted to "water down" the resolution about the use of troops in the Middle East. Instead, they not only strengthened it but probably went further on the road to war than has any resolution ever passed by Congress in advance of hostilities.

The resolution, as adopted recently by the House of Representatives, stated merely that the president is "authorized to undertake military assistance programs" in the Middle East and is "authorized to employ the armed forces of the United States as he deems necessary."

But the resolution adopted by a 20-to-8 vote of the two combined Senate committees says "The United States is prepared to use" its armed forces to assist any Middle East nations threatened by international communism "if the president deems it necessary."

The first phrasing — by the House of Representatives — is simply permissive.

The resolution by the Senate committees is much more of a threat.

It is an announcement of a decision by Congress declaring that the executive can take such action as he deems necessary. It says "The United States is prepared to use" its armed forces. The words — "The United States" — mean both the executive and Congress, acting together. It sounds more like an old-fashioned ultimatum.

THE DIFFERENCE in the wording arose from a variety of motives. Some Democrats dislike the idea of being asked to delegate the power to use force. Others feel the executive already has the power to act and Congress need only affirm in advance that he has it.

Still others want to pass the buck — preferring to wait to see how it all comes out.

If the use of force proves unpopular, they think they can shift the blame and say Congress didn't authorize it and that the President must take the responsibility. The Republicans voted for the resolution just to get it out of the committees and to expedite action.

The wording of the resolution will have to be ironed out, anyway in conference between the two houses and one suspects that it is the Senate's resolution that will be "watered down" to square with the language of "authorization" granted by the House.

The proceedings of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees have been hectic and confusing. Plenty of partisan bitterness, which never should prevail in handling delicate matters of foreign policy, seems to have cropped up.

ONE GLARING example of it was the refusal of the committees to allow publication until now of the text of the answer made by Secretary Dulles before the committees in executive session more than two weeks ago when he replied to the charge that he was reflecting on British and French troops.

The original comment by him occurred at a committee hearing on Jan. 25, when, in answering a question about allied action, he said he thought it would be better not to have French and British troops alongside American troops "as things are today," but he added, "I hope they change."

This was widely misinterpreted in the press abroad as a reflection on the valor of the British and French troops. A press officer at the State Department promptly denied this but the denial didn't catch up with the anti-American sentiment generated abroad by the false report.

Mr. Dulles appeared on Jan. 28 before the joint committee and made a fuller statement but it was not released until Feb. 14 — Thursday of this week. In the meantime, much damage was done to American prestige abroad.

Mr. Dulles said in part: "I spoke as I did precisely in relation to the present situation, particularly in Egypt, where due to the fact that the British and the French forces had been there as enemies fighting Arabs and were being or had recently been withdrawn pursuant to the United Nations decision, anything indicating that they would be brought back under these present conditions would not be useful."

THE SAME REASONING led the United Nations itself, as you have pointed out, not to include British and French in the United Nations emergency force which is in Egypt at the present time. . . .

"Certainly we hope very much that those conditions will rapidly change and indeed they do not prevail throughout the whole of the area at the present time. I am glad to say. But there are parts of the area where at the moment, due to the fact that the British and French forces have been in there as hostile forces, their reintroduction at this time or the suggestion that they would be reintroduced would not promote the purposes of this resolution."

It will be interesting to see if those sections of the British press which printed the original misrepresentation will now print the official test of the secretary of state's testimony just released.

Brainstorming

By TRUMAN TWILL

Here is an idea that has been lobbed at me so often I am going to be forced to lob it back, with apologies.

They call it "brainstorming," and it is what happens in big organizations when a lot of the boys get their heads together officially and talk off the top of them, as they say in brainstorming circles. The idea is to find new ideas by putting a premium on creative, imaginative thinking.

It is being presented as a new wrinkle in management — something revolutionary. That is why some counter-lobbying is called for.

There are no new ideas in management or anywhere else. There are only old ideas with new frosting on them, and brainstorming is an old idea. I should know.

I am a brainstormer of long standing. Or to put this squawk the way it should be put, I am a brainstormer of long misunderstanding.

My first creative thinking in the line of ideas for improving things was done early in the public school system, when I made a practice of telling teachers who were goofing their jobs how their classes should be run.

There was no premium on my creative, imaginative thinking, however.

It was appreciated no more at that time than it was to be appreciated later when I began to look at vacation employment with a view to improving conditions. One day the straw boss put it in a nutshell when he snarled, "Look, punk, I am being paid to do the thinking around here, not you."

But this did not discourage me. Whenever I turned my hand, my first thought was how to improve things. It still is. Undaunted by systematic and rude rebuffs, I give my opinions freely about conditions that need to be improved and how uplift can be started with a few easy manipulations etc.

I am not claiming that I invented "brainstorming," nothing of the sort. I am claiming that it was not invented by any of the people who belatedly have learned that if you take advantage of the free-wheeling intelligence of creative, imaginative people like me you will find many a pearl among the swine.

The trouble always has been, of course, the straw boss who was being paid to do the thinking — hectic and confusing. Plenty of partisan bitterness, which never should prevail in handling delicate matters of foreign policy, seems to have cropped up.

'Where's That Memo on How Much This Costs?'

Israel Wants Solid Guarantees

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The disagreement between the United States and Israel comes down to this: the United States says, "Trust us to do our best." Israel says, "Thanks, but we want something more solid than good intentions."

That's the sum total of a week of words and notes exchanged between President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles and representatives of the Israeli government.

It would be nice for the United States and the United Nations—in their quest for Middle East peace—if Israel would withdraw its troops from Gaza and the Aqaba Gulf area, both of which it seized when it attacked Egypt last fall.

It might give Egyptian President Nasser that much less excuse for making trouble in the Middle East. The United States asked Israel to pull back its troops. The United Nations demanded it. Israel refused.

Israel says it won't budge until it gets guarantees that, once its troops are withdrawn, the United States or the United Nations guarantees to prevent Nasser from attacking Israel across Gaza or blocking Israeli shipping in the gulf.

No such guarantees have been given by either this country or the U.N. Dulles has talked vaguely of "support" for Israel if her troops pull back. But he's never explained exactly what he means by "support."

Eisenhower has said Israel should "rely upon the resolute-ness of all friends of justice." Since good intentions can get sabotaged or sidetracked, the Israelis aren't taking any chances.

And Israel remembers how helpless the United States has been so far in dealing with Nasser. The American-Israeli week of words at least postponed for that long a showdown in the United Nations.

A week ago, just before the world organization was getting ready to consider sanctions against Israel if it still refused to budge, Dulles thought up the idea of making the American request to Israel.

The words of the famous guerrilla leader, who played a key role in organizing the World War I Arab uprising against the Turks, sound remarkably timely today when Egyptian President Gamel Nasser and other Middle Eastern rulers are flirting with Soviet Russia; attempting to play off Moscow against Washington and claiming that Islam and atheistic communism can work harmoniously together in power politics.

Col. Thomas Edward Lawrence wrote this study of Arab character just after World War I. At that time he was bitterly disappointed in British and French policies toward the Arabs. He felt that promises to the Arabs of complete independence had been broken by London and Paris, in imposing a system of semicolonial mandates on the Arab world.

Lawrence was so embittered by what he regarded as this Anglo-French double-cross that he retired from public life.

He refused all honors for his extraordinary wartime feats and sought obscurity by joining the Royal Air Force as an enlisted man.

BUT ALTHOUGH completely pro-Arab in his political sentiments, he had a deep impartial insight into Arab psychology. He warned how puzzling for the western mind were seeming inconsistencies in Arab reasoning—contradictions and shifts of attitude which to the Arab appeared natural.

He wrote the scholarly analysis for circulation among his friends. Later he incorporated it as part of an introduction to a limited edition of Charles Montagu Douglas's "Travels in Arabia Deserta," the classic description of Arabia written by the English poet-traveler 70 years ago.

Lawrence said: "They have no half-tones in their register of vision. They are a people of primary colors, especially of black and white. They are a certain people, despising doubt, our modern crown of thorns. . . ."

Inflation Conversation Piece

"Do you think there is any danger we'll have inflation?" the man asked. (He had just left the barber shop where he had paid $1 for a haircut and a quarter for a shoe shine.)

"I don't know," we said. (We were both passing a gas station whose signs proclaimed a rise not far from 40 cents a gallon for high test gas.)

"Some people think it is bound to come," the man said, as he lit up a nickel cigar for which he had just paid 20 cents, lighting it with a match whose folder advertised a restaurant featuring a one dollar egg omelette.

"Hoover and Humphrey have warned that inflation may hit us," we admitted, pausing to give a mendicant a quarter for a cup of coffee. (He wouldn't take less in his economic setup.)

"I WISH I KNEW whether they're right," the man said, as we both stopped back at a street crossing just in time to escape being hit by a plumber's apprentice speeding by in his $3,200 brand new hardtop, with his girl friend who had just won $5,000 on a quiz show for working her brain thirty seconds overtime in order to answer the question, "What is the largest river in the United States?"

"People drive too fast," the man said. "A guy put a dent in my left fender the other day and it cost me twenty-six dollars to have it repaired at Joe's Economy Repair Service."

"YOU STILL DRIVING the fifty-six sports car?" we asked.

"No. I've just bought me a station wagon. The wife wanted the big model but I took the forty-two-hundred one without the whitewalls," he replied.

"Some Washington experts say the value of the dollar may go down to twenty-five cents," we remarked, looking up and observing a great airplane flying by loaded with people bound for a luxury winter resort beyond their means.

"The inflation prophets must be exaggerating," the man said as he stopped to look into a store window showing shoes at $32 a pair and a nice line of shirts at $8.50 each.

"It may be scare stuff," we said. "I don't see any immediate danger of genuine inflation." (We had observed some dollar socks in the window priced at $4.98.)

"I guess Ike will see that it doesn't get too severe," the man said. (He paused to watch some men at work replacing some penny parking meters with the 5 and 10 cent type.)

"THE THING TO DO is to co-operate, as Secretary Humphrey asks," we observed, as we stopped to listen to a hot argument between a milkman and a housewife over a rise in milk to 22 cents a quart.

"Well, I'm an optimist. Inflation may come and it may not," the man said, as he left us to go into a supermarket and lose a $10 bill fast.

"So long," we said, entering Mike's place for the smallest glass of beer in town for a quarter.

"THE SENATE HAS VOTED a $25,000 a year pension for Presidents. Fair enough. The wear and tear on a President is so great today he should also get a compensation for damages. New York has had a tugboat strike, during which the docks were so jammed with tugs nobody could say to Pa Knickerbocker, "Your slip is showing."

The University of Michigan reports a survey indicating that thrift is on the rise. . . . (It must have dug up somebody walking the block and a half to the cigar store instead of using the seven-passenger car.)

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

There will always be an inquiry into labor racketeering. The strong-minded, strong - muscled boys have waved the rules in the face of the Senate. So the U. S. Senate will change the rules. In some fashion, the men on the Hill intend to have a permanent racket busting committee launched by February, 1958.

Mark this as the moment the encyclopedia people will characterize as the "turning point." The times will say that there was public anger and the Senate began to search for a method of policing the labor mobs without hurting decent labor — just as Wall Street, the railroads and the public utilities are watched by some government agency.

There will probably be such a recommendation in the January 1958 report when that is submitted by the select Senate committee now going into labor rackets. It's almost certain. This power could go to the current select committee now headed by Sen. John McClellan and counseled by Robert Kennedy. However, Sen. McClellan does not think that's how it will be handled.

HE BELIEVES that the continuing power, the special, exact, undefinable power will be given to a special sub-committee of the Senate Permanent Investigating Committee. But, whoever handles it, there will always be an inquiry.

The honest leaders of labor have indicated they will support such a permanent set-up. These men are realists, too. They need not be told of the torrent of mail from their own rank-and-file members pouring in on the present select committee — the bitter angered voice of the people. They can sense public opinion. They know, too, they cannot long co-exist with violence.

They have been told that such a new permanent committee, growing as the House Un-American Activities Committee did, first from inquiry, to disclosures and then on into permanent standing, will not tear labor apart now or later.

Certainly it may make mistakes. Certainly civil libertarians may justifiably find trespassing from time to time.

But neither today's committee nor its successor will rip indiscriminately into unions with scalpels probing into the waywardness of past decades.

THE COMMITTEE will back away at current scandals and dollar scavenging — the rackets of today.

So there will be no outcry from labor next year when Sen. McClellan's select committee, having spent its unprecedented $350,000, asks that the Senate be prepared to spend millions more in a continuing fight on the mobs.

If there is any attempt to kill the investigation such pressure will be countered with pressures from labor's national headquarters. Thus no one will be able to say that the national labor chiefs want this probe stopped with air brake suddenness.

This will be evident when labor's high command next gathers in Washington this spring. Unless three unions, the liquor dispensing crowd, the laundry workers and the catch-all allied industrial workers come in clean, they will be suspended.

And coming in clean, AFL-CIO president George Meany says, means not only ousting the dollar-passionate bunch but the national officers who tolerated all this and gave the boys a haven, too.

The cynics will say, "Let's wait and see." Glory to the cynics. They worship no icons made of labor. But there is evidence that some of the national chiefs are taking their new moral code seriously.

IN NEW YORK, the cynics noted a casually reported item which might mellow some of them. A fellow by the name of Sam Berger resigned from control of the Ladies Garment Workers Union's tough trucking Local 102. Berger had gone before the crusading U.S. Attorney Paul Williams' Grand Jury and taken the Fifth Amendment.

There is a strong impression in police circles that this trucking local is deep in the rackets. Mr. Williams asked Berger to identify the union's books. Berger did.

Then came a series of questions on Berger's relations with Johnny Dio, accused of masterminding the blinding of a newspaperman. Berger took the Fifth.

He thus violated the AFL-CIO's new code. He was called in by the union's national president, David Dubinsky. Berger's resignation was announced hours later.

If this sets a precedent there will be many such resignations these coming months as the big parade starts to the witness chairs of Grand Juries and Senate hearings.

Tough probes and honest labor leaders are a hard combine to beat.

The Horse Was Sober

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP)—A 65-year-old man was fined $20 for drunkenness here after the magistrate read the state police charge: "Drunk on horseback, after dark, no lamps displayed, was thrown from horse to center of traffic lane where he went to sleep. Horse was sober and released."

Joe College

By HAL BOYLE

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Joe College today is a great guy.

Don't let anyone tell you he's just a spoiled retired teen-ager who thinks life is simply one long grand ride on golden roller skates.

I came out here to teach Joe College something, but the real result, I feel, is that I have learned a lot from him. There is nothing like a visit to a modern campus to make an old grad feel young and immature.

It is the custom at Southern Illinois University here to bring a working newspaperman in periodically to talk to the student journalists. The victim is known as the Elijah Lovejoy Memorial Lecturer.

Lovejoy, an early abolitionist, was an editor who was shot to death by a mob in Alton, Ill., in 1837. Just why they brought me here I am not sure, unless it was to prove — 120 years late — that the mob shot the wrong newspaperman.

Twenty-five years have galloped into the stall of oblivion since I was graduated from the University of Missouri. On the way here I wondered whether college life had changed much.

At first sight I felt sure it hadn't. The corduroy trousers and sweat shirts still looked as unpressed as in the days when I wore them.

But after three days of almost continuous bull sessions with the lords and ladies of this campus, I found a number of differences.

For one thing, some 10 per cent of the 6,000 students here are married. When I was in college and a student learned he was to become a father, he generally left town. Now he is called into the dean's office, congratulated, and handed a cigar.

Typical of the young married couples are Bill and Marcia Spacy. They live in a trailer and have two small children.

Bill, who is an Army veteran, is studying to be a photographer. He has a scholarship and also a part-time job.

A few weeks after Marcia had her second child last summer, she enrolled for the regular fall term in the school of education. She is a straight "A" student, and that means "awesome."

"We have our problems," said Bill. "But this is the best way to live."

All the Joe Colleges I met seemed to have one quality in common — an optimistic confidence that life would turn out well with them.

How different Joe College was in 1932. We were smart-alec and cynical, because in that depression time we felt the world had small use for us.

We tried to make a joke of it and called ourselves, "The unemployed." We weren't members of "the lost generation." That was a few years before us. We were of the "get lost" generation. We felt unsure, doubtful of ourselves, unwanted in a job-hungry universe.

I remarked on this to a former classmate who recalls those times as well as I do — Dr. Howard R. Long, now chairman of the department of journalism here.

"It's true these kids are less aimless and cynical than we were," he agreed. "They are more sure of what they want because they feel more sure that they can get what they do want."

That's one reason why they're so willing to get married young. We used to dream of being big shots. Few of these kids do. They don't have boundless ambition, but they have faith in the future.

"They feel the world's their oyster, whether it's served to them on a platter or not. Most of them are quite willing to work. The main thing is they feel there is a place waiting for them when they leave college."

Maybe youth should always feel troubled and insecure and feed only for a while on impossible dreams. Maybe Joe College today feels too secure and will find he has been living in a fool's paradise.

But I hope not. It is wonderful to see young people happy in the present and confident of the future. Isn't that really how we'd all like to be?

I had half a mind to enroll as a freshman myself — and start all over again.

Roger Sherman was the only man to sign the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation, the Articles of Association and the Constitution of the United States.

A SALEM NEWS WANT AD

Talks Business To Everybody

... and Is Heard

If it's a salesman you want, you'll look far before you'll find a better one than a News Want Ad.

Small as it is, it packs a mighty wallop, and gets in places where a two-legged salesman can't get the tip of his toe. There are no barriers a Want Ad can't hurdle. It encounters no sales resistance because it's paid for by the advertiser and sought by the reader who buys The News to know what's for sale and who has it for sale. It's Wanted!

A News Want Ad is a tireless worker for anyone willing to hire its services.

It is a guide to business opportunities, often a promoter of an enterprise. It sells real estate, unused commodities and has a voice in thousands of transactions like no other medium of advertising.

It talks business to everybody, and is heard. For the price you pay, a News Want Ad is a force in selling you cannot afford to ignore. Better than 82,000 individual ads have been published in The News during the past twelve months and 82,000 of anything is worth consideration.

So, for things you want to buy, sell or rent—or for any other need — read and use News Want Ads.

COMFORT DOESN'T MEAN SLOPPINESS—It's tempting to settle down to "comfort" in the mature years. But when comfort means sloppiness, the results are downright discouraging both to oneself and one's family. We demonstrate here with camera's account of just what happened to one mature woman who'd fallen into bad habits. Poorly fitted, badly cared-for clothes, broken shoes, no make-up and an unkempt hairdo (left) made her appear far older than her years. Neglect of her skin (upper center) had produced dry skin and patches. Realization of what was happening produced these results: a trim, slim-looking woman (right) in well-fitted clothes with a skin that blooms (lower center). It wasn't done overnight and it was done with effort. But the point is that it was worth it.

Retreat For CDA Members Is Planned

A retreat for all Catholic Daughters of America May 24-26 at Cleveland was announced at the regular CDA meeting Thursday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Grand Regent Mrs. Woodrow Birkhimer presided when a donation was made to the heart fund. Mrs. Leo Taugher, spiritual chairman, reported on the Apostolate to Aid the Dying.

A letter of thanks was received from Miss Margaret Mealey, executive secretary of the National Council of Catholic Women for the local donation to the Hungarian relief.

The court will send a gift of books to state chairman Msgr. Johns, for the seminarian library.

Mrs. Roderick Engelmeier and Miss Patricia Schmidt will be judges in the annual poetry contest sponsored by the local CDA.

It was announced that the social hour which follows each meeting will be dispensed with during Lent. Sewing will be held Feb. 27 at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Scott of 1735 N. Ellsworth Ave.

Mrs. John Fithian and her committee served lunch in keeping with the Valentine theme. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Engelmeier, Mrs. Guy Mauro, Mrs. Stephen Gonda and Mrs. Frank Dutko.

The next meeting is March 14.

Melvin Deutsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Deutsch of W. 10th St., is pledged to Alpha Epsilon Pi social fraternity at Ohio Northern University, where he is a freshman in pre-pharmacy.

Women Of Christian Church Conduct Separate Meetings

"We Build on a Firm Foundation in Thailand" was the theme for groups of the Women's Christian Fellowship of the First Christian Church at their separate sessions Wednesday.

The devotional theme was "The Light We Walk in Grows Not Dim."

Announcement was made of the city-wide World Day of Prayer services on March 8 as follows: Morning at 10 in the First Christian Church; noon luncheon at the Presbyterian Church; afternoon service at 2 in the First Methodist Church; and a children's service at 4 p.m. in the Salvation Army. Also at 4 p.m., there will be a service at the Home For Aged Women.

Mary Group

Seventeen members of the Mary group and one guest met in the home of Mrs. Floyd Davis of Perry St. Mrs. Burrows Jones was leader.

The program was presented by Mrs. Richard Wilson with the assistance of Mrs. Glenn Davis, Mrs. Frank McConnell and Mrs. William Potts. Mrs. Potts conducted devotions with the aid of Mrs. Harold Deitch.

Mrs. Davis and her associate hostesses, Mrs. William Watkins, Mrs. Charles Butz and Miss Janet Davis, served refreshments.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. George Kyle, 1491 N. Ellsworth Ave.

Rachel

Mrs. L. B. Harris of E. 3rd St. entertained 16 members of the Rachel group. Mrs. Emerson Greene conducted the meeting. Mrs. Jesse Beck headed the program committee comprised by Mrs. Earl Grate, Mrs. Lawrence Goddard and Mrs. O. A. Davis.

A duet, "Whispering Hope," was sung by Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Joseph Celin. Mrs. Ross Clay led the worship service.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Harold Ludwig, co-hostesses, assisted Mrs. Harris in serving the dessert luncheon.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Celin's home in Damascus.

Ruth

Mrs. F. W. Hone is leader of the Ruth group. Mrs. Z. R. Taylor of the Georgetown Road welcomed 11 members and one guest to her home.

Mrs. John Cobedesh headed the program committee, assisted by Mrs. Harrison Kyle, Mrs. Hugh Gibson and Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. R. D. Painter conducted devotions.

The hostesses for the dessert luncheon were Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Ed Schuck and Mrs. Harley Boston.

Hospitals Auxiliary Hears Report On School Of Nursing

An analytical report of the Salem City Hospital Association School of Nursing under the present day conditions was read and discussed at Thursday morning's meeting of the Hospitals Auxiliary in the nurses home.

C. J. Mosher Jr., administrator of the association, answered questions concerning the discontinuance of the present training school. In view of the trend toward registered practical nurses training and the progress along these lines, it was pointed out that Salem Hospital Association's decision to operate a practical nurses training school is in keeping with the times.

Mrs. Moseph will head a committee from the auxiliary to conduct a benefit March 7, 8 and 9 in the Christian Church educational building.

Puppet sewing is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the nurses home. All who attend the session are asked to bring a sack lunch. The auxiliary has been holding a sewing session once each month to make puppets which will be given to child patients in both hospitals here.

Any individuals or any organization wishing to assist with the puppet project may get further information and material from Mrs. C. Robert Conroy.

Successful benefit card parties have been held in individual member's homes this last month. Both Mrs. Robert Hall and Mrs. Richard McConnell have worked on these projects.

Mrs. J. C. Pottorf, guest speaker, gave an interesting talk on "Conservation."

Lunch was served by Mrs. Ralph Starbuck, Mrs. Horace Schwartz and Mrs. Robert Chappell.

The next meeting will be Thursday morning, March 14, in the nurses home. Mrs. Ludel B. Sauvageot, public relations director from Akron General Hospital, will be guest speaker.

Students To Compete For Music Awards

Vocalists from Salem High School are competing for honors and awards in the Marie Burns auditions today. The auditions, heard annually by a committee from the Salem Senior Music Study Club, are not open to the public. Winners will be announced and awards made at the school's Recognition Day assembly.

Instrumental auditions will be heard Tuesday at the school. A total of 26 have indicated they will audition. Vocal auditions will be from sophomore and senior classes only and instrumental auditions are held for freshmen and junior classes only.

Mrs. Oana Back From Washington Meeting

Mrs. Mike Oana of the local Amvets Auxiliary has returned after four days at Washington, D.C., where she attended the 19th meeting of the Veterans Administration Voluntary Service National Advisory Committee. Mrs. Oana is the National Amvet Auxiliary representative on the committee.

Mrs. Oana participated in a special work group on the subject of "Providing Blood for Patients in VA Hospitals." The discussion leader was Miss Barbara E. Phinney of the American National Red Cross.

tip veil of imported French illusion was held in place with a Juliet cap of Chantilly frosted satin.

The bride's colonial bouquet was of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Clyde Loutzenheiser of Minerva acted as her sister's honor matron in a gown of purple velvet in the ballerina length. Her headband and muffs of matching material were centered with white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Guthrie of RD 1, Hanoverton, and Mrs. Bruce Kimble of Canton. The attendants' fuchsia and chartreuse velvet dresses were fashioned identically to that worn by the matron of honor with headbands and muffs of matching material centered with white carnations.

Ringbearer was Larry Lee Loutzenheiser, a nephew of the bride.

Best man for the bridegroom was Franklin Humphrey of RD 1, East Rochester; and ushers were Charles Draher of Minerva, brother of the bride, and Clyde Loutzenheiser, brother-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Draher chose a navy blue dress with white accessories. Mrs. Guthrie chose a navy blue dress with pink accessories. Both mothers wore white rose corsages.

A reception took place at the bride's home where guests greeted the bridal couple. A three-tier arrangement of red carnations, white candles, and ivy which adorned the wedding cake was highlighted with ornate refreshment table.

After a honeymoon through the southern states the newlyweds will reside temporarily at the home of the bride.

A graduate of Augusta High School, Mrs. Guthrie is employed by the Railway Express Co. in Canton. Her husband, a Salem High School graduate, is a farmer.

Mrs. August Benjamin Juliano

TO RESIDE IN BROOKLYN—Dr. August Benjamin Juliano and his bride, the former Harriet Ann Wilson of Kittanning, Pa., will reside at 1528 East 29th St., Brooklyn, N.Y., following their honeymoon trip to Washington, D.C. The couple pledged their marriage vows Feb. 9 at Holy Trinity Church in Ford City, Pa.

Attending the wedding from Salem were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carmine Juliano of Fair Ave. Ext. and their daughter, Terry; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Juliano and son, Richard; Mr. and Mrs. Maniscalco, Mrs. Frank Cioti, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Cioti, Mr. and Mrs. Dominic DeCenzo, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fusco and daughters, Janet and Jackie; Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Holzbach and Mr. and Mrs. Dinsmore.

The bridegroom's parents held a reception at their home Saturday night when they returned from the wedding.

Miss Janet Leona Seamans Is Wed To Paul Lee Neville

Paul Lee Neville and his bride, the former Janet Leona Seamans, are honeymooning in Florida. The couple were married at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the First Methodist Church in Columbiana, with Rev. William Longworth officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester DeLauter of RD 1, New Waterford. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Neville of RD 5, Lisbon.

Twin vases of mixed chrysanthemums and snapdragons enhanced the altar setting of palms and ferns. Mrs. Robert Lamocha of Columbiana, sister of the bride, was soloist. Her numbers included "O Promise Me," and "I'll Walk Beside You." Susanne Crowl of Columbiana presided at the organ.

Seed pearls and sequins embellished the bridal gown of Alencon lace worn over satin. The skirt of tulle and lace was fashioned with a chapel train. A crown of seed pearls held in place the orchid showered with ivy and white satin streamers was carried by the bride on her white Bible, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Evelyn Neville, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of blue lace and net and a tiara of flowers that matched her colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Anne Elliott, wore a pink lace and net ballerina gown. Her tiara matched her colonial bouquet of pale blue carnations.

Miss Karen Lamocha of RD 2, Columbiana, the flower girl, was dressed in a white nylon ballerina gown. She carried a basket of rose petals and wore a tiara of red roses in her hair. Douglas Turnbull of Columbiana, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Jim Whitacre of Rogers was his cousin's best man. Luke Bliss of New Springfield, Kenneth Crowl of Columbiana and Robert Lamocha of Columbiana ushered.

The bride's mother wore a light gray suit with pink and black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother used navy accessories with her coral suit. She, too, wore a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held in the church parlor. The refreshment table, laid with white linen, was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink roses on a silver ruffle and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom figurine.

Miss Judy Padurean and Miss Myrna Morrow, both of Lisbon, served the cake. Miss Mollie Malone and Miss Beverly Bable, both of Columbiana, poured the punch.

The 100 guests from New York, Youngstown, Leetonia, Salem, and Lisbon were registered by Mrs. Lamocha.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of Fairfield High School. Her husband, a 1952 graduate of Lisbon High School, is an auto body repairman and machanic at the Neville Body Shop.

A red wool jersey sheath dress with a gray coat with black accessories was chosen by the bride for her going away outfit. She wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will reside with the bridegroom's parents.

Gault-Murphy Nuptials Held In Winona Methodist Church

At a candlelight service in the Winona Methodist Church, Miss Donna Lou Gault and Gail H. Murphy exchanged their wedding vows Friday at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Earl Brooks officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Arthur Gault of Canton, makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. James Rhodes Sr. of RD 2, Salem. Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Murphy of 826 Jennings Ave. are the bridegroom's parents.

Tapers in the windows and in a pair of seven-branch candelabra lighted the chancel.

Miss Donna Rhodes of RD 2, Salem, sang "Because," "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Lillian Dusenberry of Winona was organist.

Mr. Rhodes gave the bride in marriage.

Her gown of ballerina length was fashioned of Chantilly lace over nylon taffeta. The bodice was styled with a boat neckline and long pointed sleeves. A pearl tiara held in place her short veil of illusion. Pink and white carnations, fern and ivy were combined in the bridal bouquet.

Miss Evelyn Ernst of RD 1 Hanoverton served as maid of honor. She wore a princess style ballerina length gown of orchid crystal with scoop neckline. Her colonial bouquet was fashioned of yellow roses.

Bruce Ernst of RD 1, Salem was best man. Richard Ward of Winona and William Alexander of RD 2, Salem ushered.

Mrs. Rhodes wore a navy blue dress and Mrs. Murphy, a rose knit suit. Each complemented her attire with a corsage of white carnations.

White bells decorated the church social room where a reception was held following the ceremony. A bride and bridegroom ornament topped the three-tiered wedding cake that was encircled with pink and white carnations.

Miss Carina Arbanitis, Mrs. Charles Dimko, Mrs. Thomas Hammerston, Mrs. James Rhodes Jr., Mrs. Galen Brandt, Mrs. Gilmer Coffey, Miss Audrey Votaw and Miss Ila Votaw served.

The 150 guests from Columbiana, Salem, Winona, Canton, Waynesburg, Lisbon, Massillon and Kensington were registered by Miss Jacqueline Lyons.

A 1954 graduate of Salem High School, the bride is employed by the Deming Co. Her husband, also a 1954 Salem High School graduate, is serving in the Army at Ft. Devan, Mass.

For traveling, the bride wore a two piece blue faille dress with matching accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will reside with the bridegroom's parents. The bride will remain here when her husband returns to Ft. Devan March 8 to resume his duty in the Army which will be completed in October.

Gifts were presented to the attendants at the rehearsal dinner given by the bridegroom's parents.

Israel

That was a key phrase in an 800-word statement authorized by the President at his Thomasville, Ga., vacation headquarters. He wound it up with a new appeal for Israeli cooperation with the United Nations, declaring:

"The United States, for its part, will strive to remain true to, and support, the United Nations in its efforts to sustain the purposes and principles of the charter, as the world's best hope of peace."

Israeli officials said, however, their talks with American officials are not at an end. Despite the air of finality about American pronouncements, Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said he expects to meet again with Secretary of State Dulles — "but no date has been fixed."

While the main U. S. effort was shifting to the U. N. at New York City, Dulles' door still was open to Eban if his government wants to change its mind about holding on to the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area called Sharm el Sheikh.

Golda Meir, Israel's foreign minister, said Sunday night Israeli troops would evacuate Sharm el Sheikh in an hour if the United States guaranteed free shipping to all nations in the Gulf of Aqaba.

In a nationwide TV appearance, she proposed three other possible solutions: (1) a similar guarantee by Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan, which border the gulf, (2) stationing of U. N. police forces at Sharm el Sheikh to prevent harassment of gulf shipping, and (3) an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

It was to avoid a showdown in the U. N. on the issue of sanctions against Israel that Dulles proposed his two-part plan last Monday. Eban came back with a counter proposal which the United States found just as unacceptable.

Both plans were made public Sunday night. The formal documents bore out what already had been reported of their substance:

1. That Dulles demanded "prompt and unconditional" Israeli withdrawal from the areas captured in last fall's fighting; pledged to seek stationing of U. N. police force in Gaza and Sharm el Sheikh, and to "exercise the right of free and innocent passage" by sending an American ship into the gulf; but "the first requirement is that force of invasion and occupation should withdraw."

2. That Eban applauded the spirit of the proposal but said "no effective steps were taken" to stop Egypt from discriminating against Israeli shipping; called for "a precise guarantee" of free gulf access or assurance that U. N. forces would patrol the gulf coast until a peaceful settlement; denied any basis for returning Gaza to Egypt and insisted it be left in Israeli civilian hands backed by a police force; and asked for clarification on how the United States feels about reopening the Suez Canal under conditions still banning Israeli use of it.

Traffic Association Elects M. A. York

Melvin A. York of the E. W. Bliss Co. was elected president of the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys Traffic Association Inc. at a dinner meeting Thursday evening at the Youngstown Country Club.

Also on the executive committee of the association is A. C. Deimel, of the Youngstown Kitchens Division of American Standard.

Dr. Howard W. Jones, president of Youngstown University, was a guest speaker.

He related the history of traffic development during the past 10 years, based on his personal experiences during travel in Mexico, Canada and Europe.

Printing Firm To Get County Ballot Copy

The County Election Board expects to turn over ballot copy for the May 7 primaries to the Wilson Printing House of East Liverpool today, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said.

Printing of the ballots was given approval Saturday when no protests or withdrawals were received by the 4 p.m. deadline, O'Hanlon said.

Ballots must be available March 8 for servicemen and civilians living outside the United States, he said.

The board certified 110 Republicans and 85 Democrats for ballot placement Saturday after delaying certification while checking to make sure new state laws had been followed.

10 Firms Bid On City Truck, Compressor

Aubrey Hayes, superintendent of utilities, reports the city Utilities Commission will meet Saturday to award contracts for the purchase of a 3/4 ton pickup truck and an air compressor for the water department.

Hayes said three bids were received Saturday on the pickup truck ranging in price from $1,495 to $1,610, and seven bids were received for the air compressor with a range in price of $3,375 to $3,975.

Playwright Indicted On Contempt Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Playwright Arthur Miller, husband of actress Marilyn Monroe, was indicted today on two charges of contempt of Congress.

The indictment stemmed from Miller's refusal to tell the House Committee on Un-American Activities the names of fellow writers with whom he admitted attending Communist party meetings in 1939 and 1940.

Miller denied in testimony to the committee June 21, 1956, that he had ever been a Communist or under Communist discipline, but admitted he had been associated with a number of Communist-front groups.

The Pulitzer prize winning playwright told the committee he "would not support now a cause dominated by Communists."

In refusing to name persons with whom he attended Communist party meetings, Miller said: "My conscience will not permit me to use the name of another person and bring trouble to him."

Forms Approved For Korean Bonus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Forms for the payment of bonuses to Ohio veterans of the Korean War will be ready for distribution about April 1.

Bonus Director Chester W. Goble announced the date after the state sinking fund commission today adopted the application forms.

The commission authorized forms for living veterans and their next of kin. They will be distributed through veterans organizations and state bonus headquarters in Columbus.

Voters approved a $90 million bond issue to pay bonuses, Goble estimated that Ohio has 250,000 living veterans. He made no estimate of their eligible relatives.

Payments will be based on $10 a month for domestic and $15 a month for foreign service up to a maximum of $400 per veteran.

Fire Kills Mother, 6 Of Her Children

CENTERVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Fire claimed the lives of a mother and six of her seven children and destroyed their six-room home just outside Centerville's city limits Sunday.

A neighbor pulled Adolph Shelby, 50, an unemployed former night watchman, from the blazing home.

The dead were Mrs. Shelby, 46; Ruby Lee, 28; Mary Fay, 20; Jo Ann, 16; Ruth, 13; Danny, 9; and Elaine, 6.

The father, who slept in a partitioned-off section of the large front bedroom, said he awoke "choking on smoke."

His rescuer, Doyle Bowen, about 26, said the house was near collapse when he broke the glass from the window and pulled Shelby to safety.

Officers said the fire apparently started in the living room from the heater or from a defective flue.

2-1 Okay Seen On Mideast Bill

Senate To Debate Resolution Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) predicted today the Senate will pass by a margin of more than 2-1 its revised version of President Eisenhower's anti-Communist Middle East resolution.

But Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said in a separate interview that if more than 25 of the Senate's 96 members vote "no," their action might classify the resolution as "one of those matters it might have been better not to bring up."

Both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have urged a decisive vote for the resolution to demonstrate solid support. The House passed it 355-61.

The Senate is expected to begin debate on the Middle East plan late today after acting on the first money bill before it this session.

As revised by Senate committees, the resolution would provide that "if the President determines the necessity thereof, the United States is prepared to use armed forces" to assist Middle Eastern nations seeking such aid "against armed aggression from any country controlled by international communism."

Up to 200 million dollars in military and economic aid also would be made available for Middle Eastern countries.

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees approved this version as a substitute for the House-passed bill which would directly authorize Eisenhower to use troops to aid countries requesting assistance.

That was the form Eisenhower originally asked.

Of the 30 committee members, eight influential Democrats voted against the resolution. Their opposition to any declaration of this type seemed likely to reflect a larger "no" vote in the Senate than administration leaders had expected.

Knowland said, however, he believes there will be no major changes in the measure as it was approved by the committees and it will be passed "by a better than 2-1 vote."

Celebrities Figure In California Probe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Famous names like Joe DiMaggio, Marilyn Monroe and Frank Sinatra will figure late this month in what promises to be one of the year's more splashy legislative inquiries.

Of these three celebrities, Sinatra is expected to be the only one to make a personal appearance.

The California Senate's interim committee on collection agencies wants to hear what the crooner knows about a private detective raid purportedly staged in 1954 to get pre-divorce evidence for DiMaggio in his rift with Miss Monroe. The actress was granted a divorce from the former New York Yankee slugger Oct. 31, 1955.

The committee's chief investigator, Lloyd Harris, says uncovered evidence that Sinatra and DiMaggio accompanied four detectives in a raid on an apartment where they thought Miss Monroe was staying. Harris said the purpose of the purported raid was to collect evidence for DiMaggio, but that the raiders somehow got into the wrong house and ran when a female occupant began screaming from her bed.

The senate committee, in hearings to be held Feb. 27 and 28 and in San Diego March 1, will investigate practices employed by private detective agencies, debt liquidators and collection agencies.

day afternoon. Relatives were visiting with inmates. Some 50 of them were believed to have been in the building when the fire broke out at 3:45 p.m. Not all of them had been accounted for.

The fire reportedly started in a hallway nearby. The operator of the home, Woodrow O'Sullivan, said he had no idea what caused it. Authorities said they were puzzled over how quickly flames enveloped the 65-year-old building. O'Sullivan estimated property damage at $250,000.

Mrs. Myrtle Gordon, 68, St. Charles, Mo., who needs crutches to walk, was resting on her bed on the first floor. She smelled smoke and then heard running footsteps.

"I threw on a robe and grabbed my crutches and went into the hall," she related. "I never walked faster in my life. When I got to the door people were jamming up there and I got shoved out with everyone else."

Thirty-nine patients in an adjoining building, also a two-story brick structure, were evacuated safely and taken to a grocery store across the street.

Warren Stuart, an employee at a nearby filling station, was putting gasoline in a car when he heard the fire alarm in this east central Missouri town of 1,600, 55 miles west of St. Louis.

He helped six inmates to safety before flames turned him back. He told of hearing screams and cries for help.

Mrs. Velma O'Sullivan, wife of the operator of the home, was injured slightly helping 10 inmates escape. She and others laid mattresses on the ground and told inmates, standing at windows, to jump. Several jumped the 20 feet to safety.

Indians Open Training With Emphasis On Base Running

Farrell Sets No Training Rules

25 Report For Advance Training

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Kerby Farrell formally took command of the Cleveland Indians today with the promise that dust will fly in the base paths of the Indians training camp here.

"I never saw a team win a pennant without having men who could go from first to third," Farrell declared. "That's what we're going to work on here — base running."

No longer, said the rookie manager, will a batter take his practice swings, then trot around the bases—a practice customary in major league training camps.

"After a man takes his last swing," Kerby told a reporter, "I want him to run to first, round the bag and stay there. Bunting practice will be conducted under game conditions."

When a ball goes through the infield, Kerby added, "I want that runner to dig for third ... and I mean dig!"

Farrell, noted for his hard-running teams in the minors, believes during base running places greater pressure on the defensive team and when pressure is applied, mistakes will be made by the opposition.

He had no training rules for his players except that "I want 'em to be in bed by midnight and I want 'em to be up in time for breakfast. Outside of that, they can make their own rules."

The select group of Indians who report today for advance training included 15 of the top farm prospects and 10 from the Cleveland roster.

Owens Sets Record For Stock Autos

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A bit of strategy—that could have just as well backfired—helped Cotton Owens to his record smashing victory Sunday in NASCAR's 160-mile Grand National Circuit Race for strictly stock autos.

"I felt we were all pretty equal in there," the Spartanburg, S.C., garage owner said, "so I tried to set a pace which would force somebody out."

"It could have been me," he added with a grin.

His pace was a blazing 101.6 miles an hour average in a 317-horsepower 1957 Pontiac. It killed off the only real challenger he had from the field of 57 starters—Paul Goldsmith of St. Clair Shores, Mich., jockeying a 283-horsepower fuel injection 1957 Chevrolet.

Goldsmith duelled Owens for 32 laps of the 39-lap grind over the 4.1-mile beach and road course and then dropped out with a burned out piston.

Johnny Beauchamp of Harlan, Iowa, driving a 270-horsepower Chevrolet finished second, 55 seconds behind Owens.

The victory was worth $4,250 to Owens.

Jay Hebert Wins Texas Open Tourney

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Jay Hebert, the slender young pro from Louisiana, won the $20,000 Texas Open with "the only shot that would have done it."

Hebert, 34, playing out of Sanford, Fla., 3-ironed to the green on the 185-yard 18th hole at Brackenridge Park and sank a six-foot putt for a birdie to beat Ed Furgol, the St. Andrews, Ill., veteran, by a stroke Sunday. He had a 4-under-par 67 on the final round for a 72-hole total of 271 — 13 strokes under par.

"It takes a perfect shot on this hole," said Hebert as he accepted the $2,800 check to make him second to Doug Ford in money winnings of the year. "I made it and I won."

Hebert, capturing his second tournament of the winter tour — the only player who has won more than one — had staged a glittering duel with Furgol, the man with the withered arm, down the stretch. They sailed through the 17th hole tied for the lead and the big crowd jammed around the 18th green was silent as Hebert stroked the putt that brought him the precious birdie. Furgol parred the hole and won second money of 1,900 with 272.

Jimmie Demaret, the old-timer from Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., had started the final round with 202 for 54 holes and a 2-stroke lead over the field. But he said he couldn't putt a lick—"I took 37 putts, that's what was wrong with me"—and ended up with a 3-over-par 74 and a tie for fifth place at 276.

Tying for third place were Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., and Tony Holguin, Midlothian, Ill., who had 68 and 66 respectively for 274 totals.

Basilio 3-1 Favorite Over Saxton Friday

By The Associated Press
Well-known Champion Carmen Basilio and ex-titler Johnny Saxton have it out for the third and probably last time in Cleveland Friday night with the champ a 3-1 favorite to win the "rubber" bout.

Basilio, 29, regained his crown from the fast moving Saxton on a decisive ninth round technical knockout at Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 12. The ex-Marine from Chittenden, N. Y., gave Saxton a real shellacking when Johnny tried to slug it out with his harder hitting rival.

Saxton, 26, a New Yorker had won the title from Basilio in their first fight at Chicago March 14 on a disputed 15-round decision. Basilio has scored 28 knockouts in 68 fights. His won-lost-draw record is 49-12-7. Saxton has a 53-5-2 record, including 21 knockouts. The bout will be broadcast and telecast (NBC 10 p.m. EST) coast to coast. The Cleveland area will be blacked out of the telecast.

CLASS A COUNTY CHAMPS: Goshen's Gophers, who defeated the Lowellville Rockets for the Mahoning Class A county championship for the first time in the history of the school, are pictured here. Seated (l. to r.) are Bob Stallsmith, Tom Wallace, Hayes Covert, Roger Wyss, Ron Wyss, Doug Birkhimer, and Buddy Anderson. Goshen Upsets Lowellville 50-48 For Class A Title

Goshen's Gophers upset the number two ranked team in the state Saturday night as they nipped Lowellville 50-48 for the Mahoning County Class A title before about 3,000 fans at Struthers Field House.

It was the first title the Gophers had ever won and it qualifies coach Joe Tucker's quintet for the sectional tournament to be held at Youngstown.

Goshen led all the way but had to stage off a last quarter rally by the Rockets who came storming back from a 13 point deficit.

GOSHEN WAS in front 14-10 at the end of the initial period, and by intermission time the Gophers had increased their lead to read 30-18. At the end of three periods the Gophers led 45-32.

From the field the Gophers meshed the nets on 18 of 47 field goal attempts for a 38.2 per cent and from the foul lane they hit on 14 of 19 charity tosses for a nifty 73.6 per cent.

In comparison Lowellville made 18 of 63 shots from the field for a 28.5 per cent and from the charity circle they hit on 12 of 13 tries for 66.6 per cent.

Roger Wyss and big Ed Wilson led the victors' attack with 15 and 12 points respectively, and Art Reedy and Tom Johnson tallied 18 and 16 markers respectively for the losers.

IN OTHER GAMES played in the tournament Berlin Center smashed Jackson-Milton 64-45, and Greenford whipped North Lima 65-45.

Jackson-Milton led at the end of the first quarter 13-10, but by intermission time Berlin Center's Blue Devils came on to take the lead 21-20. In the third stanza the Blue Devils started pulling away and led 40-30 going into the final frame.

Lee Barnes led the winners with 19 markers, and Elazek led the losers with 18 points.

Greenford kept their tournament hopes alive with a resounding victory over their opponents as they led all the way with quarter scores of 20-10, 32-21 and 49-28. Jack Brudery led the winners with 26 points, and Dick Evans tallied 15 points for the losers.

Salem 7th, 8th Grade Teams Win

The Salem Junior High School 7th grade basketball team won their ninth victory of the season Saturday afternoon edging the St. Paul 7th graders 25-22 in a game played at the winner's home court.

The winners led in the first half with quarter scores of 12-4, and 16-8 but in the third St. Paul tied it all up 19-19.

Allen Ewing led the winners with 12 markers and Marks led the losers with eight points.

In an eighth grade contest Salem beat the Leetonia 8th graders 35-25 in a game played on Salem's home court.

Salem led all the way with quarter scores of 10-6, 14-10 and 25-16. Steve Torky led the victors with 12 markers, and Franko led the losers with nine points.

Defiance, Youngstown Seek NAIA Berths

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Defiance and Youngstown, two of Ohio's winningest small college basketball teams, will meet here in a tournament to decide the state's representative in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Basketball Tourney.

Drawings for the Ohio tourney here Sunday matched Steubenville (14-7) against Wilmington (11-4) in the opening game, at 7 p.m. March 4. Defiance (17-1) and Youngstown (16-3) play at 9 p.m.

Ohio Cagers Begin Final Week Of Play

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio college cagers head today into the last big week of the basketball campaign, with 49 games on tap by Saturday night.

After that, only 46 games are scheduled up to March 11, when Xavier ends the regular season at St. Francis, Pa.

Defiance has the Mid-Ohio League championship wrapped up, and Miami could take the title in the Mid-American this week, but the Ohio Conference scrap is wide open and could go to any of several quintets.

Wittenberg is the current leader of the sprawling 14-college circuit, but just how long the Lutherans can stay up there is the big question. The top rung is a precarious spot.

On Jan. 27 Denison led with 7-1, but lost to Wooster. That shoved Akron (4-1) out front the week-end of Feb. 3. Wittenberg cooled off the Rubber City crew 52-48, and Denison was back on top after the Feb. 10 weekend, this time with a 9-2 mark. So Wittenberg, for the second straight week, upset the leaders, defeating Denison 63-56.

That shoved Denison to fourth, and Wittenberg grabbed the lead for the first time this season with a 9-2 mark. But Wittenberg winds up on the road, and could well leave its title hopes on the foreign hardwoods.

The Lutherans (11-3) Wednesday night, invade second-place Muskingum (8-2) March 1, and wind up at Heidelberg (5-2) March 5.

The scrap has narrowed down to the spot where at least five teams — Wittenberg, Muskingum, Capital, Denison and Mount Union—have a chance at the laurels captured a year ago by Akron with a 9-1 record.

Defiance, winner of the Mid-Ohio crown in 1956 with an 11-1 mark, handed Ashland a 61-45 setback Saturday for its 11th straight loop conquest and its 17th in 18 overall starts—best in the state. The Jackets, beaten only by Adrian, Mich., get a chance Saturday to avenge the defeat on the Yellow Jacket floor.

Miami's 87-74 win over last-place Kent State gave the Redskins a 9-1 Mid-American record, with two to go. Marshall's Thundering Herd, 1956 king with 10-2, is second with 7-3. Miami could end it all Saturday with a win over Toledo at Oxford, making the Feb. 27 Miami at Marshall game meaningless so far as the title is concerned.

Ohio State clung to second place in the Western Conference race Saturday by downing Wisconsin 83-50. That ended a three-game losing streak for the Bucks and gave them a 7-3 loop record behind Indiana's 7-2. Ohio State entertains Michigan (5-4) Saturday, and Illinois (5-1) next Monday.

Last week Ohio teams won 14 and lost 12 in interstate play, giving them 137 victories and 100 losses against out-of-state teams. Host teams won 39 and visiting teams 16 last week, making the season's record 291 wins for the home quintets against only 144 for visiting teams.

Of this week's games 24 are against out-of-state teams, 11 are in the Ohio Conference, 5 in the Mid-American, four in the Mid-Ohio, and two in the President's loop.

Homestead Beats Salem Junior Saxons 59-49

Salem's Junior Saxons were beaten Saturday night 59-49 by Homestead's Junior Saxons in a game played at New Castle, Pa. Salem trailed throughout the contest. They were behind at the end of initial quarter 17-15, and at the intermission trailed 31-27. Homestead pulled away in the third frame to lead 42-32.

Matt Klein led the losers as he tallied 21 markers. For the winners, Clark scored 22 points.

Salem Frosh Rip Columbiana

Locals Will Close Season Tomorrow

By BOB JULIAN

Erupting in the second half after being tied seven times in the initial 14 minutes the Salem High School freshman team clipped the Columbiana Clipper yearlings for the second time this year 53-40 Saturday evening in the local gym.

The Quakers won their 14th victory in 15 outings while the Clippers absorbed their sixth setback in seven tries.

In the absence of Coach Sam Pridon, Vince Crawford directed the locals to victory.

In the first half the Columbiana boys had the Quakers in a turmoil most of the two periods and held them to a 20-20 tie at intermission.

COLUMBIANA'S BALTZ was the biggest thorn in the Red and Black's side during the half, meshing 12 of the 20 markers tallied by the Clippers and hauling down more than his share of the rebounds.

Baltz took scoring honors for the night with a total of 27 points.

Opening the contest Salem's Ned Chappell popped in a two-pointer to give the Salemites a 2-0 margin. Baltz came right back and knotted the count for the first of five instances in the frame at 2-2.

Davy Hunter once again gave Salem the lead on a two-handed push shot 4-2, but the game Clippers evened the score at 4-4. Baltz then put Columbiana in the lead for the first time with a jump shot 6-4.

In the remainder of the period the count was knotted three more times, with both clubs coming up with 12 markers at the climax of the quarter.

Baltz meshed eight of the 12 points for Columbiana.

AT THE OUTSET of the second stanza the Quakers moved out to a four-point lead 16-12 but the Clippers charged back again to even the tilt at 18-all with less than two minutes left in the first half. Jim Lehwald put Salem ahead 20-18 and then Baltz pumped in a two-pointer just as the buzzer sounded to knot the score for the last time 20-20.

After the intermission the Quakers came storming back in the third period and stopped the Clippers cold, outscoring the visitors 15-2 to take a commanding 35-22 margin after three periods of play. Salem opened the third seven minutes by racing to a 24-20 margin then Baltz tallied Columbiana's only two markers of the period with about four minutes of playing time remaining in the stanza.

From this point on the locals played their usual fine brand of ball.

In the fourth canto Coach Crawford cleared his bench late in the period but not before the Quakers had built a 48-30 lead with four minutes to be played in the tilt.

THE NEW SALEM subs picked up where the regulars left off but the Clippers' one man gang Baltz started to pepper the hoops and the locals were outscored in the final segments of play 10-5.

Each team bagged 18 markers in the final stanza.

The locals lost the services of versatile Danny Krichbaum for the remainder of the season. Krichbaum was moved permanently up to the reserve and varsity quintets.

High point man for the Red and Black was Hunter with 18 markers.

In the shooting department the locals caged 24 of 79 fielders for a 30 per cent average and at the free throw line they drilled in five of 18 for a low 27 per cent.

Columbiana dumped in 26 per cent of its shots from the field, hitting on 17 of 63. Doing better at the charity stripe they bagged 40 per cent, connecting on six of 15. Salem closes its season tomorrow afternoon against the Alliance State St. yearlings at 4 p.m. in the local gym.

Salem—53

Chamberlain Needs 40 Points To Regain Lead

By The Associated Press
Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain needs 40 points against Oklahoma tonight to regain the individual scoring lead in major college basketball.

That would give the Kansas giant a 30.61 average against a 30.57 mark by South Carolina's Grady Wallace. Both Wallace and Columbia's Chet (The Jet) Forte, No. 3 in the scramble, are idle tonight.

Fights I Can't Forget ... No. 7

Bloodied Walker Cried In 15th, But Only For Backers Who Lost

By NAT FLEISCHER
Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Mickey Walker came out for the 15th round and he was crying. The ring-siders could hear his sobs as he battled those final three minutes with Harry Greb. I had never witnessed this before and have not seen it happen since.

Walker had just completed 14 cruel rounds with Greb, the bigger and faster Pittsburgh fighter. He had been staggered in the 11th, battered into near-helplessness in the 14th. His right eye was closed. Blood leaked quickly from his nose.

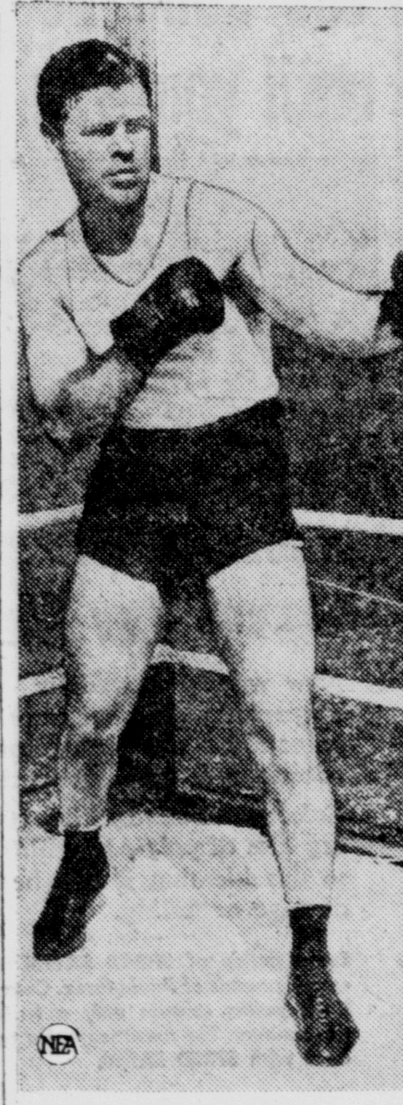

The injuries had not caught up with Walker, however. He was crying because he knew he could not win the fight and had let down Jack Kearns, his manager, and other heavy backers.

This was how one of the pure riots staged in boxing history entered its last round. Walker, the welterweight champion, and Greb, the middleweight champ, fought before 65,000 people on July 2, 1925, at the Polo Grounds.

AT 31, WITH 13 years and 250 fights behind him in a burn-both-ends-of-the-candle life, Greb was too old for a fast pace. Walker thought.

Mickey's plan was to start out from the opening bell, carry the fight to Greb and wear the Pittsburgh fighter down with a relentless, two-handed attack. Not only did Greb keep going with Walker's pace, but he proved he could go faster. At times, Mickey became bewildered by the storm of leather Greb threw at him and he faded as the battle progressed.

Greb fought inside for 13 rounds. Then he came out for the 14th and caught Walker with a vicious right hand. Walker spun. Greb, his hand broken, waded in. Another right spun Walker. Another nearly put him down. Then Walker stopped dead on his feet. He was unable to do anything but stand there as Greb hit him from every angle. Greb didn't miss once. Walker's spirit alone kept him from going down. Blood colored his face as Greb ripped away. Walker could only snarl defiance.

SUDDENLY, AS IF COMING out of a trance, Mickey tore into Greb with a mad rally which picked the spectators out of their seats in a sight New York never had seen. Walker swarmed all over Greb and then shot the works with a right cross. It shocked Greb, who sagged, then clinched for his life.

In the 15th, Walker came out again. He had been soundly beaten over the fight and Greb, instead of finding a wilted man in front of him, found that Walker had not shot his bolt in the 14th. Six times, Walker drove sledge-hammer drives into Greb's stomach until Harry pulled himself together and went back at him.

The two fighters finished the round by pounding at each other without a let-up. The final bell found them this way — Greb, majestic in a cleverly-fought victory, and Walker finishing a tremendous exhibition of raw courage and perseverance.

WHILE THE BATTLE was going on, Jack Kearns, who managed Walker, remained in Billy LaHaff's apartment over the famous Tavern on 48th Street near Broadway. Kearns had a run-in with Commissioner Jim Farley and Bill Muldoon over his refusal to accept the challenge of Harry Wills for a championship bout with Jack Dempsey, whom Jack had managed.

The commission not only refused to grant Kearns a second's license, but they made sure he wouldn't operate by remote control from ringside by not permitting him to enter the Polo Grounds. Kearns didn't see one punch of the bout. He heard it over radio. He missed a fight he would never have forgotten. I still haven't.

Quakerettes Defeat Elyria Girls 57-38

The Salem Quakerettes, playing their last home game of the season, won their fourth victory in eight starts Saturday night by crushing the Elyria Redbirds 57-38.

The Quakerettes found stiff opposition for the first half, but then pulled away from the visitors in the second half to win easily.

In the first stanza Salem took an 11 to 6 edge, but at intermission the Redbirds were in the lead 18-17. Salem tallied 18 points and limited the visitors to 11 in the third quarter to go into the lead 35-29.

Flo Fluert led the losers with 19 points. Elyria now has a season record of 6 victories and 5 losses.

Gayle Davis led the winners with 25 markers and Betty McKenna, Janet Reeder, and Darlene Smith scored 13, 9, and two points respectively for the Quakerettes.

From the field the Quakerettes took 50 shots and hit on 20 of these for 40 per cent, and from the foul lane they made 17 of 33 gift shots for a 51.5 per cent.

The Redbirds made 13 of 44 field goal attempts for a low 29.5 per cent, and hit on only 12 of 27 charity toss

Handy Man Should Make Safety First Rung On Ladder

With the advent of spring, one of the first objects to be dragged from the garage or basement (or borrowed from a neighbor) is a ladder. With proper handling, a ladder is one of the handiest tools. With improper handling, it offers a fast short cut to a hospital.

Most people flounder hopelessly when putting a ladder against a house. I used to make a big job of it until a painter friend of mine taught me to "walk" a ladder into position.

The trick is a simple one. Here's how:

Place the ladder on the ground near the point at which you wish to erect it. Brace the foot of the ladder against a step, curb or the base of the house. Then, lift opposite end to your own height.

Start walking forward under the ladder, advancing your hands from one rung to the next.

With the ladder in an upright position, you'll find it easier to handle. Lean it against the house. Or, if you are at a little distance from the house, carry ladder erect to place it.

WHEN YOU have the ladder in position, move its base away from the house. The distance between the base of the ladder and the house should be one-fourth the length of the ladder. For example: Base of a 12-foot ladder should be three feet away from the house; a 20-foot ladder five feet, and so on.

The correct angle is very important. Too great an angle and the ladder will break under your weight. If you place the ladder too close the house, it might tip backward.

If you are using a metal ladder and have it resting on concrete, use rubber safety feet, which are easily attached. Lacking these, rest the ladder on a sandbag, or tie a piece of rope to the base of the ladder and the house.

It's always wise to have someone hold the ladder while you're aloft.

Once on the ladder, observe certain rules for your own safety. If the job requires the use of both hands for any length of time, you should be using scaffolding instead of just a ladder.

If you must let go with both hands for a moment, lock yourself in position by slipping one leg over a rung and holding on to the rung below with the heel of your shoe.

If you are on a straight ladder, don't climb higher than the third rung from the top. On a step-ladder, the rule is: no higher than the second step from the top.

Clean the soles of your shoes so that they will be free of mud and grease before you do any climbing. If it's a cold day, dress warmly, but don't wear bulky clothing that will impair your movements. If it's windy, don't climb a ladder unless you absolutely have to. If you must climb in the wind, have an assistant to hold the ladder.

BE CAUTIOUS in placing the ladder. Avoid doors if you can. If you can't avoid putting a ladder in front of a door, be sure the door is locked while you're working. Otherwise, someone may come running out, unaware that you are in the way.

Never use an old ladder that's begun to fall apart. Weak rungs may give way, no matter how carefully you step on them. Never use a ladder with a missing rung. You may forget that it's missing and lose your balance.

Marring the paint on your house is not a necessary evil when you use a ladder. Old socks, rubber gloves or similar coverings over the top ends of the ladder will prevent marks.

WHEN CARRYING your ladder to and from a job, locate its center of gravity (the point at which it balances). Then, hang the ladder on your shoulder at that point.

If painting, provide yourself with a wire hook so that you can suspend the paint bucket from a rung.

If you store your ladder by hanging it on a wall of your garage, use enough supports — either large shelf brackets or angle irons — to avoid strain and resultant warping or weakening of the ladder.

The Japanese beetle found its way to the United States in 1916, probably arriving on the roots of imported Japanese irises. The pest first was observed near Riverton, N.J.

MAKE GOOD SAFETY practice the first rung of your ladder every time you undertake a repair job which takes you off the ground. A few steps upward can be a long way down.

FASTENING TO CONCRETE

DO . . . use cut or split nails for attaching wood to concrete. Remust be used than other types of concrete fasteners.

DO . . . use expansion shields or anchors for high-strength fastenings to concrete, using carbide-tipped drills to make the holes.

DO . . . drill the holes of the same length and diameter as the shields or anchors in order to make as tight a fit as possible.

DO . . . consider the use of other types of masonry fasteners, including anchor nails welded to perforated metal squares, which are attached to the concrete with adhesive and eliminate the drilling of holes.

DON'T . . . hammer cut or split nails directly into concrete without first going through wood unless you want the nails to bend or fly out of your hands.

DON'T . . . forget that if you use a star drill (which is banged with a hammer), placing a piece of rubber around the shank will absorb some of the vibration.

DON'T . . . when using a power drill in concrete, relax your pressure at any time; if you want to stop a minute, remove the drill from the hole while it is still running at full speed.

DON'T . . . neglect to measure the size of the screw used in an expansion shield or anchor; it should be as long as the thickness of the material being fastened plus the depth of the hole minus one-eighth to one-quarter of an inch. (Not as difficult to figure out as it sounds).

PAD absorbs vibration.

Use Cement Nails For Rooms In Basement

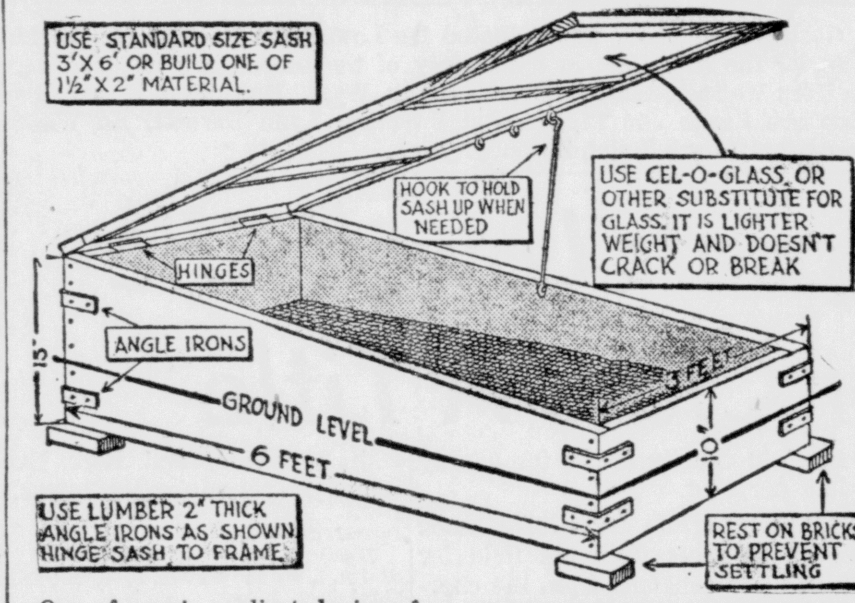

Some home carpenters desiring to build a family room in the basement have become dismayed because of the prospects of nailing wall paneling onto cement foundations.

Here is an easy solution. Nail one-by-three inch furring strips at about two-foot intervals, starting from the floor.

Use cement nails which drive right into the concrete.

A hairpin weighs a little less than 1-100th of an ounce.

Cold Frame Is Warm Bed For Early Season Seeds

One of man's earliest devices for protecting seeds and young plants from the destruction of cold weather is still doing a top-flight job with modern refinements.

It is the cold frame — a wooden glass-topped structure in which seeds can get an early start in growing eight weeks before frost disappears and outdoor gardens become safe.

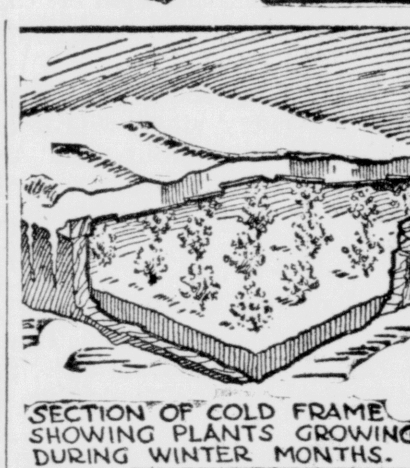

The ancestor of the cold frame was nothing more elaborate than a pit in the ground. Primitive gardeners noticed thousands of years ago that plants flourished in pits where they had protection from cold weather. The pits became a standard part of ancient gardening and are even used in some temperate climates today.

The cold frame, keeping out all cold while admitting the sun's rays through its glass top, is easily and inexpensively built. Using the sun's heat, it sometimes produces temperatures up to 100 degrees.

The accompanying diagram shows a small cold frame made to fit the standard, 3 by 6 foot sash. It can be altered however, to fit a sash of any convenient size. The sash covering does not, necessarily, have to be glass. Any glass substitute — such as polyethylene — will serve to admit the sun's rays and will have the added advantage of being unbreakable.

A cold frame should always slope toward the south, in order to have uninterrupted sunshine. It can be made of 1-inch, or thicker, rot-resistant lumber, such as cypress or white pine.

Use the above illustration as a working plan for constructing the frame. When you are ready to put it to use, dig a shallow pit which will permit the frame to fall about four feet below the level of the earth. Then pile soil around the outside, tamping it so that no drafts can enter. The soil should be bank-

Q — How can we remove a yellowish stain which appears near the drain in our bathroom wash-bowl?

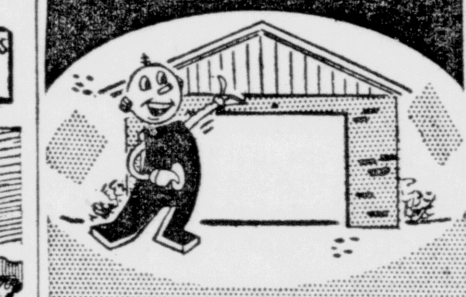

A — You might try making a solution, using turpentine and a quantity of salt. Scrub vigorously with a soft cloth soaked in this solution.

RENTER DISAPPEARING

The renter is gradually disappearing from the American scene. Today, the Small Business Administration says, more than 55 per cent of all homes are owner-occupied. This compares with 44 per cent in 1940. Younger couples, especially, want their own home where they can dictate how it shall be built.

The wild boar has been exterminated in England for more than three centuries, but still may be found in some of the dense forests of continental Europe.

SPRED SATIN—the only paint made with poly-AM!

Amazing demonstration of paint flexibility and durability. Imagine a paint film you can scrub, stretch and crumple!

because SPRED SATIN with poly-AM gives you Stay-Fresh beauty that lasts!

New wonder ingredient—poly-AM—makes SPRED SATIN outperform all other interior paints because it dries as 2 paint films in 1 with colors that stay bright—keep your rooms new-looking until you want to change colors. Colors are bound in the 100% latex film by an interlocking film of poly-AM which makes SPRED SATIN so tough, so durable that it can be washed repeatedly without damage or fading.

Every gallon of SPRED SATIN contains over 4 pounds of liquid latex. Competitive latex paints contain only a fraction of this amount. The result: superior performance with SPRED SATIN.

Q — What presidential distinction is held by the state of Virginia?

A — It was known as "The Mother of Presidents," during the nation's first 36 years. Virginians held the presidency for 32 years.

Q — Does honey have only one color?

A — No. In this country alone there are some 2,000 plants from which bees make honey, each lending a distinct flavor and aroma.

Q — What term is applied to the vocal organ of birds?

A — The syrinx.

Q — Is the cosmetic industry a major one in the United States?

A — Yes, figures for 1955 show that 285 million dollars were spent on cosmetics.

Q — Which is correct, to say that a state joins the Union, or that it is admitted to the Union?

A — Strictly speaking only the 13 original states joined the Union; the rest were admitted by Congress.

Q — Why do we say something that has been appropriated for a certain use has been "earmarked"?

A — The allusion is to the English farmers' practice of notching the ears of their cattle to permanently identify them.

Q — Is the study of the English language increasing in popularity?

A — Yes, one person out of every seven or eight living today may be defined as English-speaking or a student of English.

Vermont is the only inland state in New England.

MARTHA, COME HERE AND TAKE A LOOK! THERE'S A MAN OUTSIDE WHO'S BEHAVING LIKE A VERY SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER.

Joseph Bryan to Speak at Columbiana Legion Banquet

Civic Groups Cooperate In Washington Day Event

COLUMBIANA — Joseph A. Bryan of Truscon Steel division in Youngstown of the Republic Steel Corp. will be the speaker at the 33rd annual Washington's birthday banquet of Firestone American Legion Post in the all-purpose room of Joshua Dixon School at 6:30 p.m. today.

"Communism a Real Challenge" will be the speaker's subject. Rev. H. J. Scheidemantle will offer the invocation, and Willard Ferrall will lead group singing, with Leo Holloway as accompanist.

Civic groups participating will be York Drexler Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis, Rotary, Booster and Ruritan Clubs. Members of the Booster Club and their wives will serve the banquet.

TWO 1956 graduates of Fairfield High School will be united in marriage in an open church service in Columbiana Methodist church at 7:30 p.m. next Friday.

Rev. W. S. Longworth, pastor, will officiate at double-ring rites uniting Miss Donna Garrod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Garrod, E. Park Ave. Ext., and Larry Kannal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kannal of New Waterford.

A reception in the church parlors will follow the ceremony.

Miss Garrod has been employed as receptionist in the dental office of Dr. L. Harold Nelson and Mr. Kannal is associated with his father in the Kannal Coal Co.

Mrs. Kathryn Kennedy Brown of Columbus, president of the Ohio Republican Federation of Women's Clubs, will speak on "Federation and Organization Work" at Smucker House, Salem, at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Brown is also Republican national committee woman for Ohio. Columbiana women are invited.

Fifteen-minute talks on famous personalities will make up the program at the February meeting of the Sorority Club in the public library at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

THE TRIPLE M class of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Scheidemantle, 209 N. Elm St., at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

John Golden of Golden's Flower Shop, next door to city hall on W. Friend St., will be the speaker at the meeting of the Columbiana Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Irvin Brittain, N. Vine St., at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. Mrs. Hayes Armstrong will be associate hostess.

Don Gosney will tell of his experiences on his recent visit to Austrian refugee camps in Europe and to NATO sessions for the Columbiana Democratic Women's Club at Young's restaurant at 8 p.m. tomorrow. The club made a $10 donation to the "March of Dimes."

Committees recently appointed for Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church are: William Keller, James Sansenbaugh and James Sittler, finance; Fred Ward, Warren Miller and Wilbur Weber, evangelism, and Joseph Keck, Lester Harold, Howard Wise and Oscar Mollenkopf, house.

Kindergarten parents will meet in the manual training room of the High School building at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow to make toy building blocks of discarded lumber for use in the kindergarten rooms. Lunch will be served.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Clipper Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will meet in the lodge quarters at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

$3,684,422 Collected By County In Taxes

Columbiana County collected a total of $3,684,422 in taxes on real estate and public utility property in 1956, State Auditor James A. Rhodes reported today.

Delinquent taxes at the end of 1956 amounted to $106,800 compared with $116,675 at the end of 1955.

The respective figures for Carroll County in 1956 are $669,585, $16,637, and $7,599; Mahoning, $12,490,906; $278,865, and $2,061,364; Stark, $12,334,860; $234,200 and $146,554; and Trumbull $9,209,704, $241,343 and $550,745.

Two Persons Hurt In Highway Mishap

Two persons were injured Sunday morning at 7:45 when their car went out of control and overturned on Rt. 30, nine miles south of Lisbon.

The driver, Joseph Fowler, 39, of North Manchester, Ind., received lacerations of the right leg. His wife, Alberta, 38, received a fracture of the right arm. Both were treated at the East Liverpool City Hospital.

Fowler was cited for going left of center, patrolmen said.

CORRESPONDENT DIES

PORT CLINTON, Ohio — Andrew J. Haley, 65, radioteletype operator for a railroad, correspondent for several newspapers and a former football coach, died Saturday.

A New York Central employee, Haley was Genoa correspondent for newspapers in Toledo, Fremont and Port Clinton. He was football coach at the University of Toledo in 1921 and coach of Clay-Genoa High School from 1922 to 1929. Funeral services will be Wednesday.

53 Courageous Ohio Convicts Get Cancer In Hope Others May Benefit

Editor's Note: When authorities at the Ohio Penitentiary called for volunteers for a spine-chilling experiment to help advance cancer research, 53 courageous convicts stepped forward to receive live cancer cells. As fascinating as the experiment itself is the human story of what made these men do it.

By WILLIAM K. TERRY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"It's like the boy scout helping the old lady across a dangerous street. We're trying to help a lot of people across the street."

The "street" which the 30-year-old convict from Asheville, N. C., had in mind was cancer. He was about to take part in an experiment requiring human guinea pigs in the great medical hunt for a cure or prevention of the disease.

The young southerner, who had come to Cleveland to work in a foundry but got into enough trouble to land him behind bars, was quietly sitting on a pew-like bench with a group of other prisoners.

H glanced around the room containing a dozen similar benches, a television set with a "hands off" sign, an ancient upright piano, an American flag, two covered pool tables, sofas and some roped-off tables at which other inmates were eating. The scene was a first-floor room in an Ohio Penitentiary building called "Recreation Hall—Recreation Area."

A few minutes later he walked upstairs to a sparsely-furnished room where a cancer research specialist implanted live cancer cells under the skin of his forearm.

Fifty-two other penitentiary inmates — all volunteers — went through the same routine last Feb. 7. For 11 of them it was the third time, for 15 it was the second time. But it was the first time for 27 men.

You feel you're going to be a part of something that will help a lot," said the southerner. "I volunteered for the first test, but I was unlucky and wasn't called."

When Warden Ralph W. Alvis called for 25 volunteers last summer he got 150 men who wanted to take part in the cancer research sponsored jointly by the Sloan-Kettering Institute of New York City and the Ohio State University College of Medicine.

The over-all study is aimed at trying to find out whether man has a natural defense mechanism against cancer.

What manner of men are these who let a doctor wed millions of cancer cells to healthy ones in their bodies, to see what will happen?

They have one thing in common. They chalked up unusually good records while serving terms ranging from one year to life.

While it's never mentioned, some may feel their action won't hurt their chances when parole is considered.

They represent many occupations in civilian life and in the prison shops and dining room.

There are young men in their early 20s and others who won't see 55 again. None receives special prison treatment because of the tests, although participation goes into his record.

Why did they volunteer? Some answers were supplied when Warden Alvis let newsmen interview the inmates. No questions about names, prison numbers, or crimes were permitted.

A 46-year-old convict from Columbus put it this way: "I've been in so much trouble all my life, and this is the first time I've ever done anything good. My grandfather and grandmother both died of cancer."

A 38-year-old inmate of Dayton, Ohio, said simply, "The boy I was raised up with died of cancer."

"It didn't seem to bother my friends, so I thought I might as well volunteer," said a 35-year-old former Cleveland who got three injections at once.

Actually the research project began three years ago when 15 volunteer civilian patients with far advanced incurable cancer were implanted with cancer cells of types different from those killing them.

The cancer implants grew in 13 of these patients until they were removed, one to six weeks later. In four cases even after the implants had been cut away, cancer occurred again and continued to grow.

To the researchers this indicated cancer patients had no defense against other types of cancer.

Several scientists in recent years had live cancer cells injected into their bodies. Results indicated cancer cells could not grow in healthy humans.

But to learn if that were true, large-scale tests were needed. Ohio Penitentiary inmates were selected because of the ease with which any change in physical condition of the volunteers could be watched, and the ample medical facilities of the prison and Ohio State University.

There were 14 volunteers in the first test. About one-half came from families that knew cancer. Into their bodies went cancer cells the same as used with civilian patients.

Dr. Richard H. Brooks, prison medical director, tells of the results: "Within seven days, there was no sign of cancer in half the men. Cancers in some of the others were removed surgically for examination at intervals of two and three weeks. At the end of four weeks, implants that had not been surgically removed disappeared entirely. There has been no recurrence of cancer growth—in contrast to findings among the civilian patients."

A larger group of prisoners took part in the second phase of the study last fall. Those making a second trip got the same type of cancer cells as before.

A doctor said this was to determine whether their defense mechanisms against cancer were working more efficiently because of the first inoculation.

The researchers added a new twist to the third study this month. They want to know what will happen to a man after he gets another cancer cell injection—of a different type than first used.

Some of the inmates got one injection, some two and some three at a sort of atomic age "medicine show" recorded by newspapers, magazines, television cameras, newsreels and medical journals.

At least one more experiment is planned at the penitentiary, for a date not yet selected.

A 28-year-old volunteer from Michigan summed up a feeling surely shared by many of the others when he said: "I'd be lying if I said I wasn't worried. You lie there on your bunk, knowing you have cancer in the arm, and just think. Boy, what you think about!"

CHILD DIES IN CRASH
LAMBERTVILLE, Mich. (AP)—Five-year-old Cindy Lou Dossie of Holland, Ohio, was killed Sunday when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another car at an intersection near here.

Program Is Held By Goshen Grange

Master Kenneth Hutcheson presided at Friday night's meeting of Goshen Grange in the hall. He announced Pomona Grange to be held at 8 p.m. Friday at Dublin Grange and a county meeting on March 8 at Greenford Grange when the third and fourth degrees will be exemplified in full form.

Mrs. Joe Herbert, lecturer, presented a traffic safety quiz and a skit in which the men dressed as girls pictured on each month of the calendar. The cast was comprised of Richard Rhodes, Richard Bryan, James Hollinger, Ray Starbuck, John Hrvatin, Don Starbuck, Kenneth Hutcheson, Charles Cooper, Robert Miller, Gail Bartchy, Joe Herbert, William Marshall.

Men of the grange sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" to the women. A gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Starbuck, couple married the longest, 48 years.

The juveniles heard a reading about Abraham Lincoln and enjoyed contests. Mrs. Richard Rhodes and Mrs. Roland Chaffee are matron and assistant, respectively.

Ray Beck won a cake in a benefit conducted by the home economics committee.

Serving on the social committee were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stille, Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stille.

The next meeting will be March 1 at Goshen Grange Hall.
